GENEVA DISPLAYS RELIEF AT ITALO-ABYSSINIAN COMPROMISE

GEN. CHIANG PULLS IN THE GOVT. NET

GENERAL HO MAY LOSE COMMAND

HUNAN REORGANISATION

(From Our Own Correspondent)
Canton, Yesterday.

Having reorganised Kweichow and Yunnan provinces, General Chiang Kai-shek, Chairman of the Military Affairs Commission, will shortly proceed to Changsha for a similar purpose, and will also assist in the suppression of the Communists under Hsiao Keh.

General Ho Chien is the Chairman of the Hunan Provincial Government and concurrently general officer commanding the troops in that province. He will be relieved either of his military or political post. Nan-king troops will be sent to Hunan to assist the provincial troops in dealing with the Communists.

About two more divisions of Nanking troops are being dispatched to Kweichow from Kiangsi. They are commanded by General Ku Tzu-tung, who has been appointed director of the Kwangyang Pacification Headquarters in place of General Hsieh Yoh, who has been transferred to a similar post in Yunnanfu.

These developments have enabled General Chiang to assert control over places that were hitherto detached and virtually independent.

U.S. MISSION IN SZECHUEN

GENERALISSIMO
TO BE MET

Pahsien, Yesterday.
The American Economic Mission visiting Szechuen called on the Generalissimo and Madame Chiang Kai-shek this afternoon, and carried on a preliminary discussion of several questions. To-morrow they will dine with the Generalissimo and Madame Chiang and have an opportunity of thoroughly acquainting themselves with the Generalissimo's policy.

CHINA'S CLAIM TO LEAGUE SEAT

SYMPATHY SHOWN
BY POWERS

Nanking, Yesterday.
Chinese reports from Geneva state that most of the Powers are sympathetic towards the Chinese claim to a special seat on the Council, adding that it will be decided at a secret meeting of the Council to-day whether the question will be brought up at the session of the Council in September.

Mr. Quo Tai-chi, who has conferred in this connection with various foreign delegates, left for Nice last night to meet Mr. Wang Chung-hui.—Reuter.

NETHERLANDS AND JAPAN

Arbitration Treaty
Approved

Tokyo, Yesterday.
A special committee of the Privy Council has approved the treaty of arbitration concluded between the Netherlands and Japan last year. A full session of the Privy Council will confirm the committee's decision, probably next Wednesday.—Reuter.

Berlin dispatches indicate that Gen. Joachim von Ribbentrop (above) will henceforth be a sort of ambassador-at-large for Germany, travelling from the capital to do diplomatic chores.

FATAL RAILWAY ACCIDENT

WANDERER ON LINE KILLED

A fatal tragedy, in which the head of a Chinese male was severed from his body, occurred on the Canton-Kowloon Railway line shortly after 4.30 p.m. yesterday, when the Canton express train, the Flying Dragon, was on her way to Kowloon.

The express steamed out of the Tsimshatui Station, Canton, and, as she was gathering speed while passing the Tung Shan district, the man-walked across the track, and was knocked down. The wheels of the train passed over his neck, severing the head from the body. It appears that the train was just rounding a bend when the driver noticed the victim, but all attempts to avert an accident proved unsuccessful.

CHINESE JUDICIAL AFFAIRS

Forthcoming Meeting
At Nanking

Canton, Yesterday.
It has been decided by the Judicial Yuan in Nanking, that a judicial conference will be held in the capital on Sept. 16. Following receipt of the notice from the Judicial Yuan, the National Sun Yat-sen University has appointed Professor Hsueh Chi-kwong, Dean of the College of Law, to attend the conference.

It is learned that, according to the regulations for the convention of this kind of conference, besides judges and high officials of the various courts, the law schools of the national universities and colleges of law which are recognized by the Judicial Yuan are permitted to send one representative each to attend the conference.—Central Press.

$2,000 BRACELET LOST

European Lady
Makes Report

While on her way home from the Peninsula Hotel, Mrs. Fisher, of No. 10, Bay View Mansions, lost a platinum and diamond bracelet, containing 46 graduated diamonds and valued at $2,000.

This occurred between 2.30 p.m. and 3 p.m. yesterday, and, although messages were circulated to all stations in the Colony immediately after Mrs. Fisher reported the loss, the bracelet has not yet been recovered.

WAR RISK GREATLY REDUCED

IMMEDIATE ENQUIRY
NOW POSSIBLE

FRENCH PRAISE FOR LEAGUE

Geneva, Yesterday.

A general feeling of relief prevailed following the acceptance of the proposal for the settlement of the Italo-Abyssinian dispute, and it was felt that the risk of war in Ethiopia had been greatly reduced owing to three important circumstances; firstly, the League Council is now officially associated with the dispute with Italy's consent; secondly, the arbitration commission established to deal with the frontier incident can start work immediately and have a time-limit fixed for the discussion; and thirdly, Italy re-affirms her solemn obligations under the treaty not to have recourse to war while the arbitration is proceeding.

On the proposal of Abyssinia and in a speech accepting the resolution Baron Aloisi offered Italian co-operation in the delimitation of the frontier after the arbitrators have settled the dispute regarding the frontier incidents. The Italian Government, however, would not admit that the arbitrators themselves should fix the boundary.

A message from Paris states that the League has escaped a damaging blow to its prestige, according to French opinion, and the newspapers generally handsomely compliment the League on its accomplishment.—Reuter.

Geneva, Earlier.
Italy has accepted a compromise in the Abyssinian dispute.

The three points in the proposed solution of the Italo-Abyssinian deadlock to which Signor Mussolini objected are: firstly, the reference to the whole article V of the Italo-Abyssinian Treaty of 1928, which provides for arbitration and particularly "that there be no recourse to force"; secondly, fixing a time limit for the procedure of reconciliation; and thirdly, fixing another meeting of the Council if the conciliation procedure does not succeed. Given time, the Italian Government submitted counter-proposals which were considered entirely inadequate.

Consideration Held Over By League

London, earlier.—Private conversations between the British, French and Italian delegates were continued yesterday at Geneva in reference to the Italo-Abyssinian dispute.

Despite serious difficulties encountered there is no relaxation of efforts to effect a compromise agreement.

LEAGUE RESOLUTION

Council's Decision After Night Sitting

Geneva, Later.
The League of Nations Council, after a night sitting, adopted a resolution declaring that the Council, leaving the two parties, full liberty to settle the dispute in accordance with Article V of the Italo-Abyssinian Treaty, decides to meet if the four arbitrators for a settlement have failed to reach an understanding before July 25 regarding the selection of the fifth arbitrator, unless the four arbitrators agree to the extension of this

Rome, Yesterday.
"Nobody in Italy or abroad must mistakenly think that we shall not be circumspect before taking a decision, but once that is taken we shall march direct."

This hint at the Italo-Abyssinian parleys at Geneva was thrown out by Signor Mussolini while he was addressing members of the services on the occasion of the twentieth anniversary of Italy's entry into the war.

In the presence of the King and the Crown Prince, Signor Mussolini declared: "Our gospel is: 'Better five days as a lion than 30 days as a sheep.'"—Reuter.

MILITARY PARLEY IN CANTON

PROVINCIAL DEFENCE
REORGANISATION

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Canton, Yesterday.

An important military conference was held here to-day on the ways and means for the protection of the province and the suppression of bandits and Communists. All the leading military commanders are back in Canton to attend the meeting.

Each garrison commander was called upon to make a report on his district. Other officers above the rank of colonel also took part in the deliberations. A dinner was given last night by General Chen Chi-tang, Commander-in-Chief of the First Group Army, to his subordinate officers.

"CLIVE OF INDIA" BANNED

CANTON CENSORS
TAKE ACTION

INDIAN PROTEST SEQUEL

A minor sensation was caused in Canton a few days ago, when "Clive of India," a United Artists production, starring Ronald Coleman and Loretta Young, was banned by the Department for Foreign Affairs on receipt of a protest from Indian residents.

Interviewed yesterday morning, Mr. Morgenstern, the South China distributor for United Artists Films, said that Chinese action in Canton was taken at the instigation of Mr. K. B. Vaidya, an Indian journalist, and members of the Indian community, who contended that the film was degrading to them.

The petition was sent to Dr. Kan, head of the Foreign Affairs Department, who immediately banned the film.

Mr. Morgenstern immediately wrote to the American and British Consuls, asking their assistance in the screening of the production, and, as a result, received a letter from the Grand Theatre, intimating that members of the Indian community had taken exception to several episodes in the film.

Mr. Morgenstern again wrote to the American and British Consuls and to Dr. Kan, arranging for a preview.

The discussions were not made public, but it is understood that an intensive effort will be made to clean up the Communist remnants and bandits at Nam Shan in Eastern Kwangtung, about 80 miles above Swatow. The other important problem is the strengthening of the military defence of the province.

Large sums of money have been spent in erecting defence works in Eastern and Northern Kwangtung. The military defence, it is learned, consists of keeping these fortifications in good condition and the stationing of sufficient troops at strategic points.

HEAVY PROGRAMME OF ENTERTAINMENTS

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Canton, Yesterday.

Industrial and civic progress in Canton made a good impression to-day on the 10 members of the Committee of the Hong Kong General Chamber of Commerce, who were invited to visit Canton by Mr. Lin Yun-kai, Chairman of the Kwangtung Provincial Government.

The visiting members inspected the cement plant at Sai Chuen, the sulphuric acid plant, the water works and the caustic soda plant. The superintendents of these plants speak fluent English and explained in detail to the visitors how the plants are operated.

At 1 p.m. the visitors from Hong Kong attended a luncheon given in their honour by the Canton Chamber of Commerce in their premises at An Kung Street. They were accompanied by Mr. Herbert Phillips, British Consul-General, Mr. C. E. Whitmore, Consul, and Mr. D. Cameron, Acting Consul.

TEXTILE MILLS VISITED
After lunch the members of the mission crossed the Pearl River Bridge and visited the textile mills and other industrial works in Ho-nam Suburb. To-night the visitors will be entertained at dinner by Chairman Lin Yun-kai at the Municipal Reception Building. Leading Chinese officials will be present.

The Canton authorities will provide motor-cars and guides to conduct the delegation to see places of interest to-morrow. They will visit the Country Club, near the foot of the White Cloud Mountain, the famous Yellow Grandma's Cave, the new site of Sun Yat-sen University, the 72 Heroes Memorial at Yellow Flower Hill, and the Chungshan Memorial Hall.

London, Yesterday.
The latest news is that Bobsleigh, Lord Derby's entrant for the Derby on June 5 at Epsom, is again bad. After cantering this morning, he was given trotting exercise, and appeared, as he trotted, as if the trouble near his hind legs had returned. As a result it was decided not to gallop him.

"I will not give up all hope, but his position is now much more serious," said Trainer Leader.—Reuter.

PERRY AND TUCKEY BEATEN

AUSTRALIAN ACES
WIN AT AUTEUIL

Paris, Yesterday.

A sensation was caused in the semi-final round of the French Doubles Lawn Tennis championship at Auteuil to-day by the defeat of Fred Perry and C. R. D. Tuckey, who were eliminated by Vivian McGrath and D. P. Turnbull, the Australian Davis Cup players, by 3-6, 6-3, 6-4, 4-6, 6-4.—Reuter.

On Thursday Perry and Tuckey beat Franco's first ranking doubles pair, Jean Borotra and Jacques Brugnon, in a five-set duel.

SHORT STORY

THE STORY-TELLER

By "SAKI"

It was a hot afternoon, and the things as though they were jam piously sultry, and the next stop was at Templecombe, nearly an hour ahead. The occupants of the carriage were a small girl, and a smaller girl, and a small boy. An aunt belonging to the children occupied one corner seat, and the further corner seat on the opposite side was occupied by a bachelor who was a stranger to their party.

Both the aunt and the children were conversational in a limited, persistent way, reminding one of the attentions of a housewife that refused to be discouraged. Most of the aunt's remarks seemed to begin with "Don't," and nearly all of the children's remarks began with "Why?" The bachelor said nothing out loud.

"Don't, Cyril, don't," exclaimed the aunt, as the small boy began smacking the cushions of the seat. "Come and look out of the window," she added.

The child moved reluctantly to the window. "Why are those sheep being driven out of that field?" he asked.

"I expect they are being driven to another field where there is more grass," said the aunt weakly. "But there is lots of grass in that field," protested the boy; "there's nothing else but grass there."

"Perhaps the grass in the other field is better," suggested the aunt faintly.

"Why is it better?" came the swift inevitable question.

"Oh, look at those cows!" exclaimed the aunt. Nearly every field along the line had contained cows or bullocks, but she spoke as though she were drawing attention to a rarity.

"Why is the grass in the other field better?" persisted Cyril. The frown on the bachelor's face was deepening to a scowl. He was a hard, unsympathetic man, the aunt decided in her mind.

The smaller girl created a diversion by beginning to recite "On the Road to Mandalay." She only knew the first line, but she put her limited knowledge to the fullest possible use.

"Come over here and listen to a story," said the aunt, when the bachelor had looked twice at her and once at the communication cord.

The children moved listlessly towards the aunt's end of the carriage. Evidently her reputation as a story-teller did not rank high in their estimation.

In a low, confidential voice, interrupted at frequent intervals by loud, petulant questions from her listeners, she began an unenterprising and deplorably uninteresting story about a little girl who was good, and made friends with everyone on account of her goodness, and was finally saved from a mad bull by a number of rescuers who admired her moral character.

"Wouldn't they have saved her if she hadn't been good?" demanded the bigger of the small girls. It was exactly the question that the bachelor had wanted to ask.

"Well, yes," admitted the aunt lamely, "but I don't think they would have run quite so fast to her help if they had not liked her so much."

"It's the stupidest story I've ever heard," said the bigger of the small girls.

The smaller girl made no actual comment on the story, but she had long ago recommenced a murmured repetition of her favourite line.

"You don't seem to be a success as a story-teller," said the bachelor suddenly.

The aunt bristled in instant defence.

"It's a very difficult thing to tell stories that children can both understand and appreciate," she said stiffly.

"I don't agree with you," said the bachelor.

"Perhaps you would like to tell them a story," was the aunt's retort.

"Tell us a story," demanded the bigger of the small girls.

"Once upon a time," began the bachelor, "there was a little girl called Bertha, who was extraordinarily good."

The children's momentarily aroused interest began at once to flicker; all stories seemed dreadfully alike.

"She did all that she was told, she was always truthful, she kept her clothes clean, ate milk pud-

ONE QUART OF MILK

Each day!

For each child!

For a healthy body!

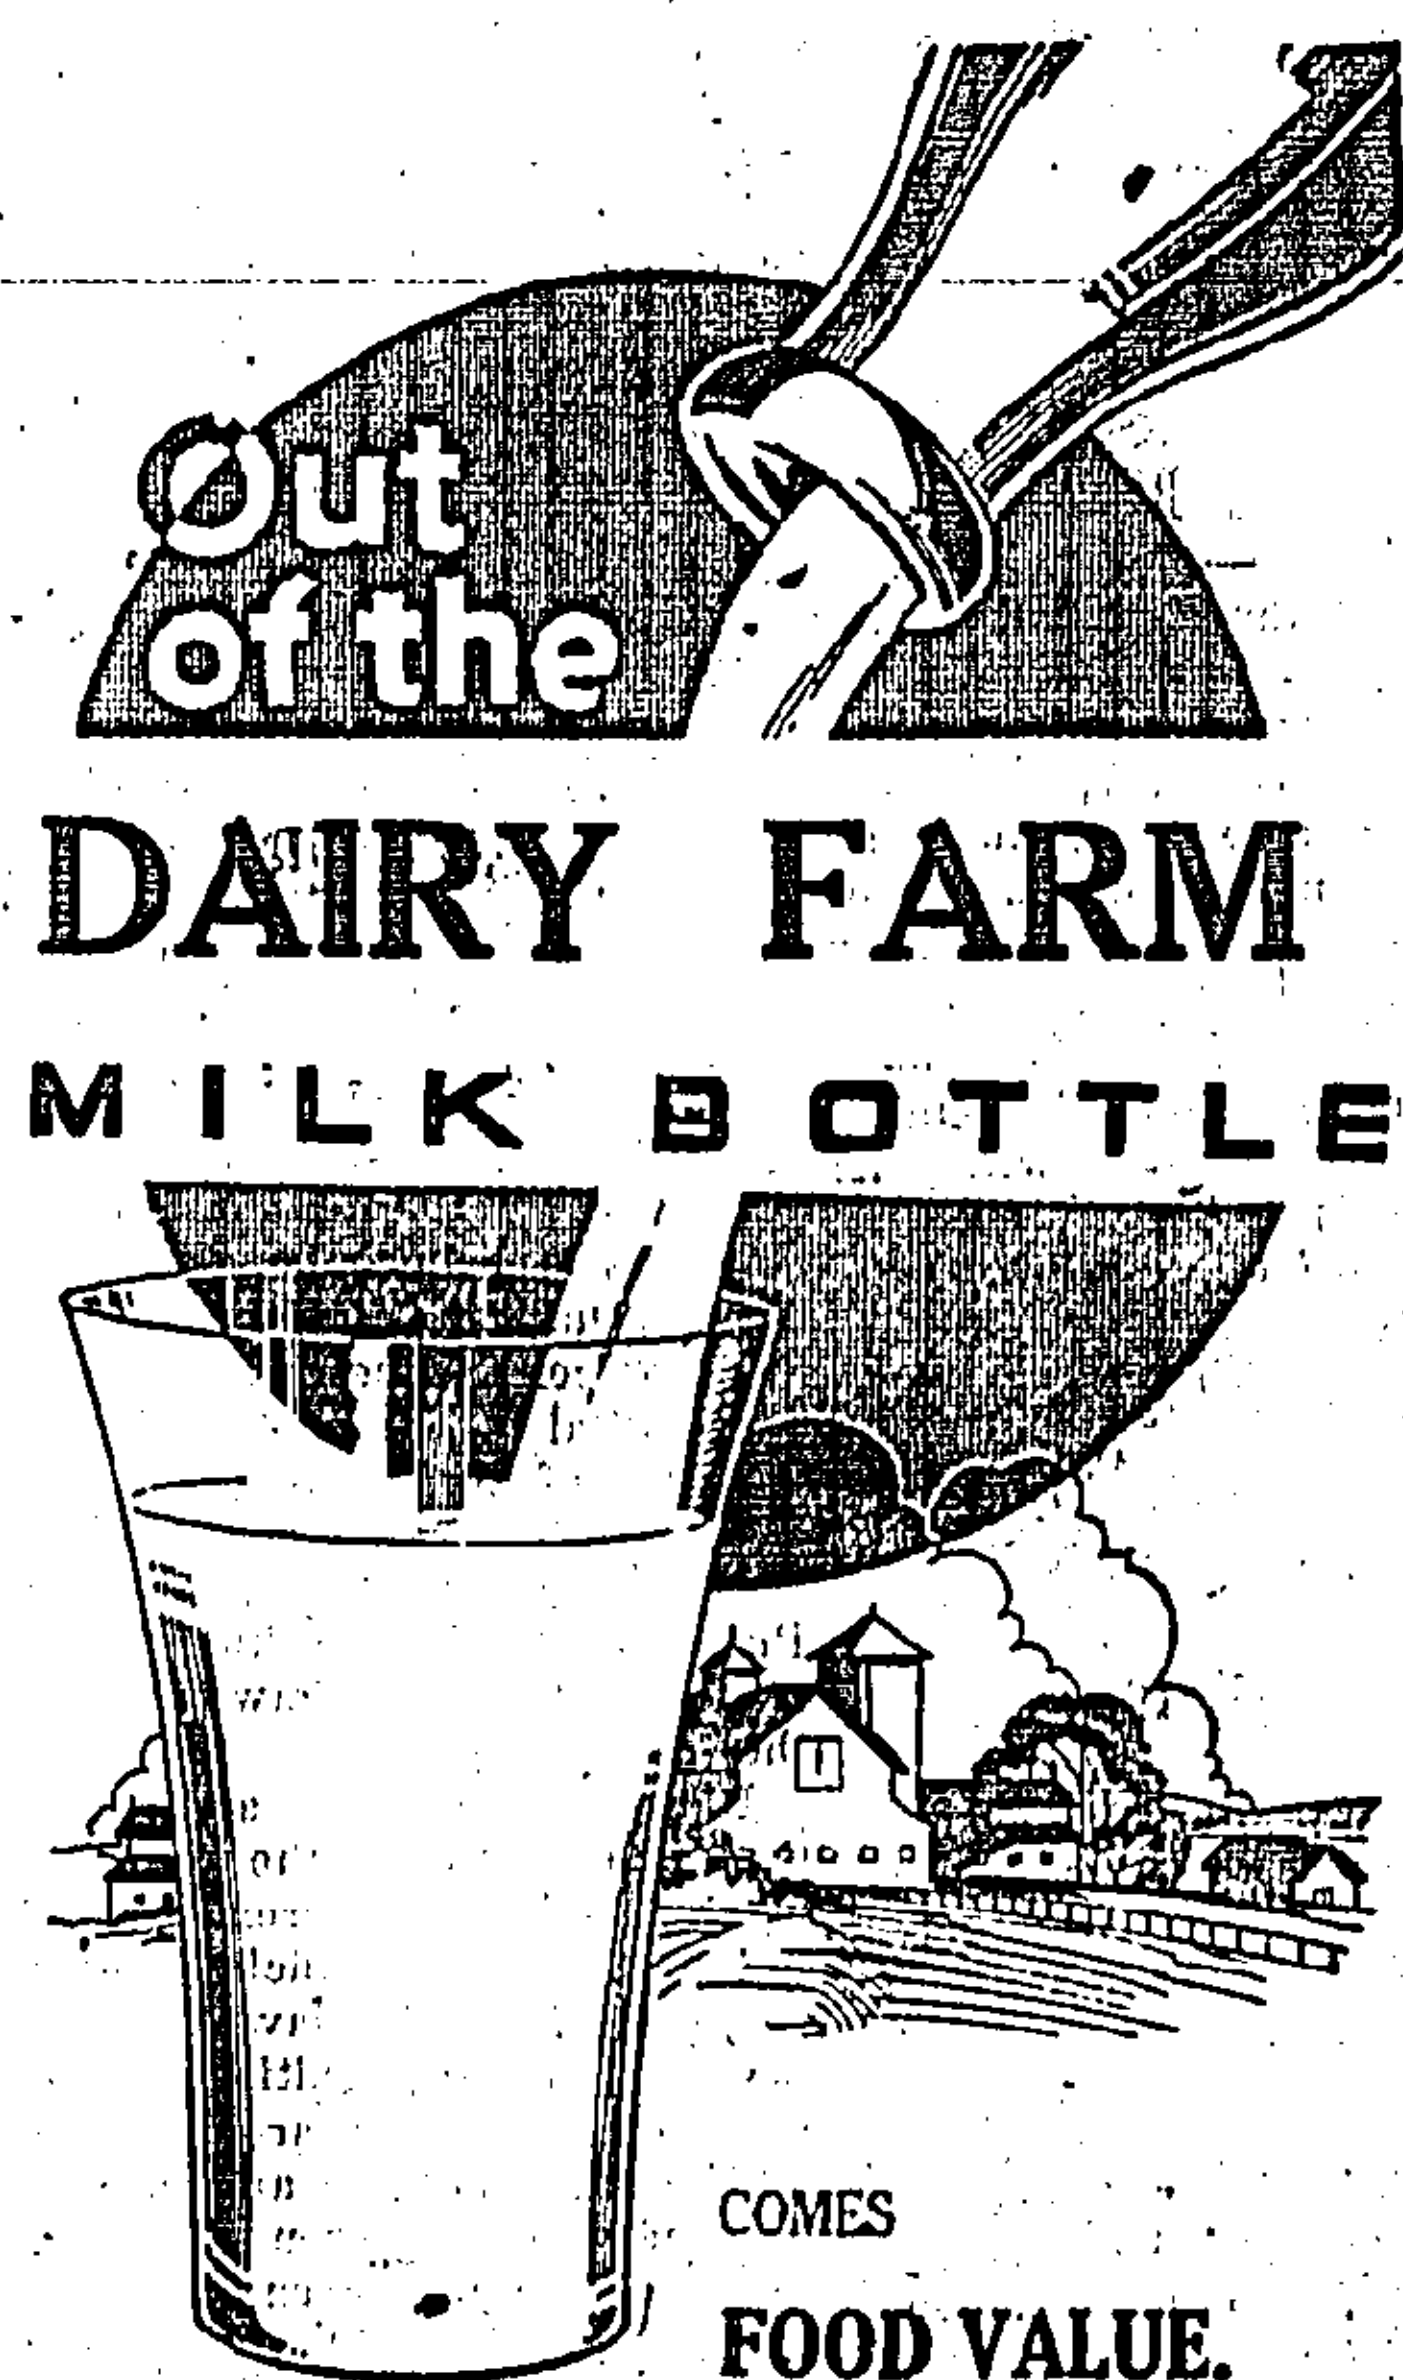

For a well-functioning mind!

For economy!

It has been said that the efficiency of a child can be predicted, largely, from a knowledge of its consuming habits.

To eliminate milk from a child's diet, or to reduce the amount suggested by science as constituting an adequate diet, is to reduce the substance from which the child's body and mind are made.

Milk consuming habits are best acquired through a learning process. Instinct alone cannot be depended on to direct a proper or adequate ration.

THE SECRET OF MAKE-UP

Harmony Most Essential LIPSTICK AND ROUGE TO MATCH

USE your lipstick bravely. Here is a chance to let yourself go. You can be dashing, gay, impudent, anything you will. Only to-day I have seen shades that run the whole gamut of colouring, mood, and personality.

Some were bright and clear as a spring day (lovely for blondes), others rich and glowing for brunettes. Some daring, some discreet. One delicate as a rose, another gay and flaunting as a challenge.

Choose which you will, but see that it tones with your rouge. In good makes such as these I have described, lipstick and rouge can always be had to go with each other.

The secret of make-up is harmony. And you can achieve this only by having the right shades for your own colouring. With this in mind, I have made out a chart giving the correct shades of make-up for five different types—the blonde, the medium, the brunette, the redhead, and grey.

This has been worked out with the assistance of one of the world's most famous cosmeticians. It includes suggested foundation creams and liquids.

(X.Y.Z.)

PRINTED TAFFETA

Smartest Material For Dresses And Blouses

PRINTED taffeta is one of the smartest materials for your formal dresses and blouses this season. Make a note of it. If you are worried by dark hints that taffeta "cuts itself out," try an artificial silk taffeta and see how it wears.

Frills

In the evening you can get really down to this business of frills. Have a couple round the hem of the neat jacket which practically makes a suit of your gown and three more at the edge of your whitening three-quarter sleeve, as shown in the centre sketch. Width in the lower part of the sleeve adds a graceful effect to the balance of the jacket.

This is one of the most becoming outfits I have seen anywhere. The transparency of the black tulle jacket gives an attractive glimpse of the décolletage beneath.

Good For Thin Woman

It would look particularly well on the thin woman who is seeking a gown which will do kind things to her figure, even if the jacket was only one thickness of tulle.

She might even have it in chiffon or, though this would not be quite so good, in georgette.

SWAGGER COATS IN TAFFETA OR VELVET

SWAGGER coats remain the favourite for sports wear but the long, fitted coat of the redingote type with a rather full skirt and sleeves of generous proportions is shown in woollen materials for the street and in velvet or taffeta, in slightly exaggerated form, for the evening.

SMART ACCESSORIES

Finishing Details Count A Lot This Season

COLOUR SCHEME

WOMEN are buying all manner of smart accessories for this season. This is a season when the finishing details count for much in dress.

White linen flowers for hat and buttonhole are smart, and the white gloves with cord trimming and such handbags continue the colour scheme further.

Shoes show the new high-fitting models. White neckwear is smart when placed under the revers. These are held back by clips.

Beige buffalo and llama skin are two novel leathers for handbags, and a new handle or an umbrella completes the collection.

HOW TO APPLY ROUGE

Should Look Natural

ROUGE is more tricky than people think, and not just a blot of colour to be slapped on at random. To say, "I am looking a bit pale; I'll just have a dab of this," is not the way to apply it. Yet, judging by the dabs one sees on poor, protesting faces, the method is not infrequent.

Rouge, properly applied, should never look anything but natural. Put a spot on each cheek-bone, and blend it gently and carefully into the skin, until nothing remains but the faintest flush to glow beneath the powder.

SPRING SUIT IDEAS

IDEAS for the spring suit include a flowered organdie blouse, with large roses of the material. Another organdie finish is the white collar and bow trimming the gaudy coat of grey silk.

LEATHER-BOUND BOOKS

Linseed Oil Keeps Them In Good Condition

USE VACUUM CLEANER TO REMOVE DUST

DURING spring cleaning an opportunity should be taken on a fine day to air all books. If possible, they should be put out of doors with the leaves open. This will prevent mildew, and prevent the books from deteriorating. After the book-cases have been washed and thoroughly dried a few drops of eucalyptus oil should be sprinkled inside, which will help to keep the books in good condition.

A vacuum cleaner or feather duster is the best way of removing dust; a duster may rub in the dust instead of wiping it off. Finger marks can be removed by rubbing with stale breadcrumbs or an artist's indiarubber; an ordinary indiarubber should not be tried, as it may rub off the surface of the paper. Grease marks can often be removed by ironing with a warm iron, with a piece of blotting paper underneath to absorb the grease. If this is not effective a little benzine should be rubbed on the mark.

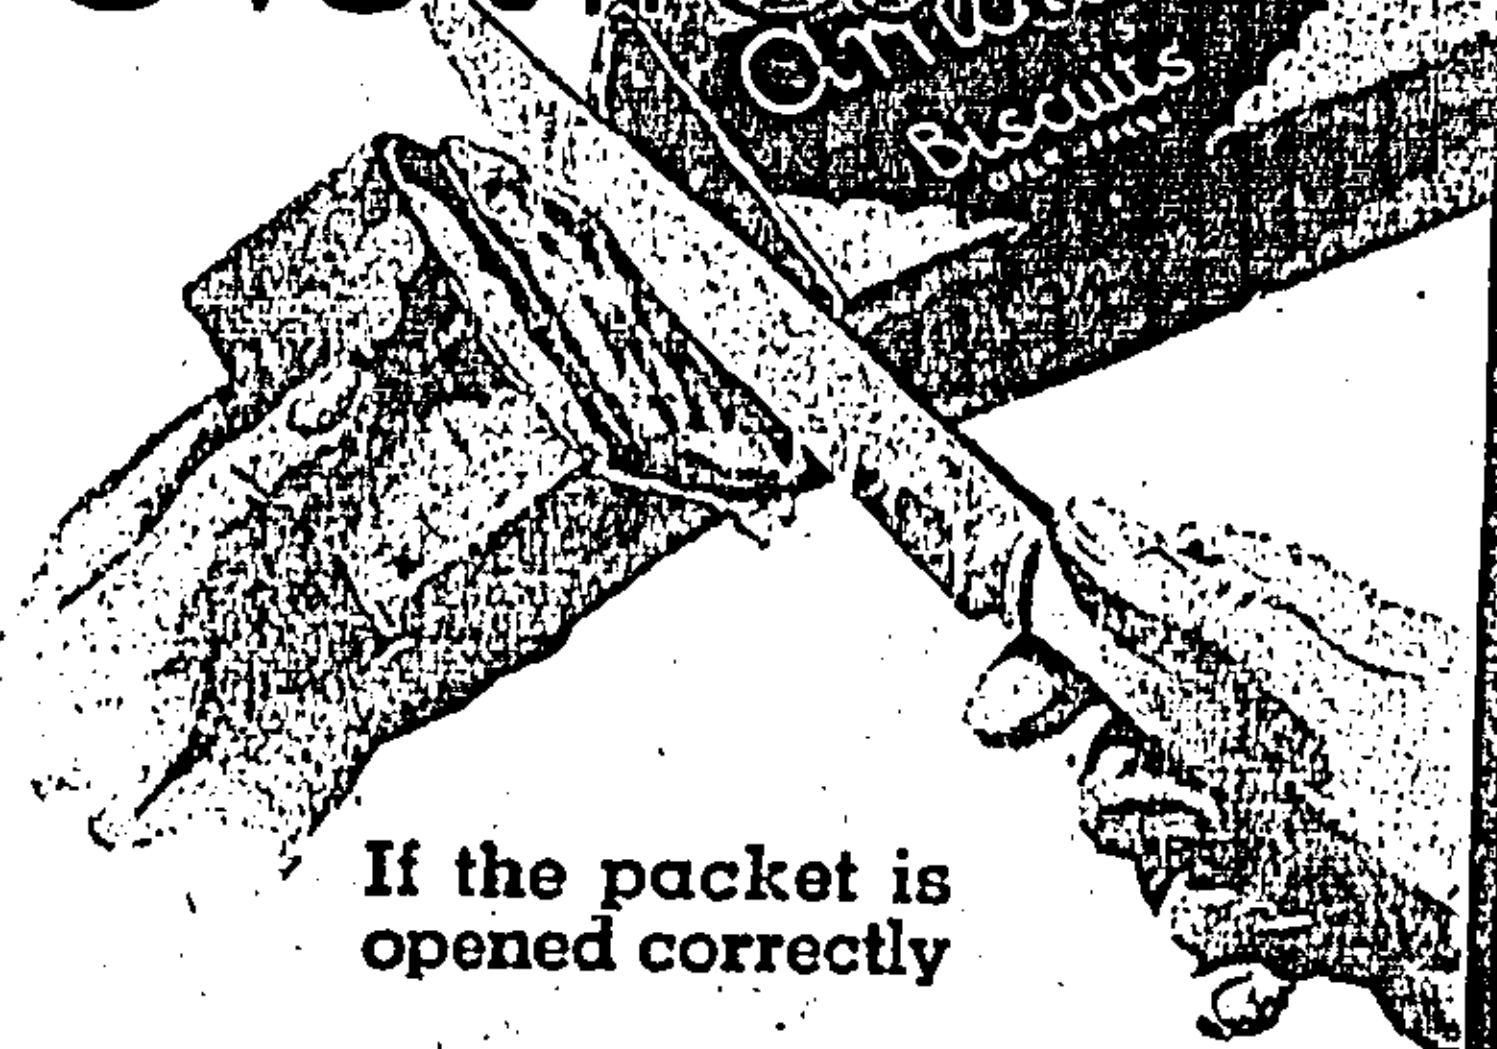

Leather-bound books should be rubbed with the merest suspicion of linseed oil, which will keep them in good condition and well polished. A few drops should be put on a duster, and the leather rubbed with this. Suede-bound books can be cleaned with french chalk; this should first be rubbed in, left for a time, and then rubbed off with a clean duster.

shredded
½ cup cooked carrots, diced
Mix Royal gelatine with seasonings; add boiling water. Stir until completely dissolved. Add cold water and vinegar. Pour thin layer in bottom of loaf pan, chill until firm. Sprinkle with a little paprika and arrange on it a layer of sliced egg. Meanwhile, chill remaining gelatine mixture until it begins to thicken; pour enough over eggs to cover.

On this arrange alternate layers of vegetables and thickened gelatine, using string beans for first layer, carrots for second layer, and peas for third layer. Chill until firm. Cut in slices to serve.

If any of the above vegetables are not readily obtainable, try substituting whatever is in season.

These biscuits will retain their crispness and freshness.

If these instructions are followed the packet will close like a book, safeguarding the original freshness and flavour of the biscuits.

FRAGRANCE The Latest Creation by YARDLEY

TRULY a Face Powder of supreme quality, is the new Yardley 'Fragrance' Powder.

It will give you more than you had ever hoped for from a powder. So light it will cling for hours, so luxuriously fine, like delicate, tinted mist; so subtly shaded that only the richer, softer finish of your skin will reveal that you have used a powder at all.

For your boudoir there is also 'Fragrance' Perfume in a variety of notes; Bath Salts and Bath Dusting Powder, all perfumed with the entrancing 'Fragrance' perfume.

CRAIGENGOWER & RECREIO IN DOUR STRUGGLE FOR LEADERSHIP

MRS. KAYLL RECOVERS BUT NOT PLAYING

CHINESE R.C. FAVOURED AGAINST K.C.C.

TO-MORROW'S LEAGUE TENNIS

ONE of the most interesting Mixed Doubles tennis league programmes of the year will take place to-morrow, when the Kowloon Cricket Club, conquerors of the United Services Recreation Club, holders of the Dunlop Shield, meet the Chinese Recreation Club at Causeway Bay in what will probably decide this season's championship.

The United Services Recreation Club are not likely to be at full strength against the Kowloon Cricket Club "B" team, for Mrs. J. F. Kayll, although she has recovered from her recent illness, is not playing.

The Chinese have not yet played their first match in the League, but are likely to defeat their unbeaten Kowloon rivals.

TRIMMERS BEAT DUSTMEN IN NOVEL FOOTBALL MATCH

SUBMARINE MEN'S GOOD DISPLAY

TURNER OUTSTANDING FOR RAINBOW

It is seemingly very hard to convince Englishmen that there is a definite season for football, and sailors are apparently no exception, for, despite the fact that the mid-May sun was scorching down on Thursday last a team of "Trimmers" from H.M.S. Rainbow met a team of "Dustmen" from H.M.S. Otus, and, after a very thrilling game, during which the Trimmers were facing a one goal deficit at one stage, the Rainbow stalwarts rallied to win by 4 goals to 1.

The Rainbow's win was due mainly to the very excellent work of the forward line led by "Strong-Top" Turner. He played a fast game and maintained perfect control of his men throughout. He was always on top of goal waiting his opportunities, and the fact that he did not actually score does not detract in any way from his fine showing.

INTER-SCHOLASTIC ATHLETICS

Finals At Caroline Hill To-day

A large crowd of spectators is anticipated at Caroline Hill this afternoon, when the finals of the Inter-Scholastic Union's Athletic meeting take place.

At the preliminaries, held on Friday, several good performances were witnessed in the field and sprint events, and to-day's programme is expected to be even better.

The sports commence at 2.15 p.m.

ST. JOSEPH'S PLAYERS SHINE IN TRIALS

The Eastern Athletic Association's soccer team, who were supposed to have left for Shanghai during the middle of this month, will now probably leave during the second week in June.

Several players from other First Division football clubs have been invited to make the trip with the Eastern team.

The Eastern have arranged a series of games with Naval teams on Wednesdays and Saturdays. On Wednesday and Saturday last, they

MR. LEO FROST NOT MAKING THE TRIP

The Macao Jockey Club's 1935-36 racing season commences this afternoon with the Spring Meeting, the feature of which will be the race for the Chairman's Cup, for which 34 entries have been received.

Much disappointment is felt in racing circles at the inability of the Colony's best rider, Mr. Leo Frost, to make the trip, but his mounts have been placed in the very capable hands of Mr. P. P. Botelho, who has always ridden with greater success at Macao than at the Valley.

HONOURS SHARED IN SNOOKER AND BILLIARDS MATCH

ENGINEERS WIN SNOOKER

BUT K.C.C. VICTORY AT BILLIARDS

The Kowloon Cricket Club were entertained to Snooker and Billiards matches on Friday night by members of the Institute of Engineers and Shipbuilders of Hong Kong, and although the visitors were defeated in the snooker, were successful in the billiards.

In the Snooker the home players won by three straight frames, A. E. Ainsworth obtaining the highest break in each frame for the I. E. and S., his best being 28.

The scores were:

Snooker:—A. E. Ainsworth and J. M. D'A Remedios (I.E. and S.) beat P. E. Knight and W. Mulcahy (K.C.C.) 3-2 (Ainsworth 28, 60-42 (Ainsworth 21) 55-36 (Ainsworth 24). Billiards:—Capt. Lee (I. E. and S.) beat A. Hyde-Lay (K.C.C.) 250-100. J. Duncan (I. E. and S.) lost to R. P. Phillips (K.C.C.) 234-250 (Phillips 34). J. Landolt (I. E. and S.) lost to M. N. RINKS GAMES TO-DAY

OMAR'S QUARTETTE FAVOURED

Two ties in the Colony Rinks Championship will be decided this afternoon. The powerful Craigengower combination, J. Cavanagh, H. W. Bradbury, H. Beer and U. M. Omar (skip) will meet J. C. McGowan's quartette (J. Gallatly, M. E. Purvis, and P. E. Knight) on the Football Club green.

Including himself, Omar's rink is composed of bowlers who have been playing skip in the First Division for some considerable time, while Beer retains the position he has held throughout the

SILVA'S RINK DROP FIRST POINT

DALLAH'S FOUR LOSE PROUD RECORD

SEASON'S SECOND "POSSIBLE"

NOT even the heavy rain which fell during their matches could shake Craigengower "A" and the Recreio from their 100 per cent. pedestals in the lawn bowls league-championship race yesterday. The Kowloon Bowling Green also retained their proud position in the junior division.

One feature of the afternoon, however, was the check received by C. G. Silva's all-conquering rink at the hands of C. S. Rosset's Craigengower "B" four, while A. R. Dallah's quartette had their 100 per cent. record shattered by B. W. Bradbury's Craigengower rink—the visiting skip slipped and fell on the fourth end, conceded a six on the next head, and never recovered his true form throughout the game!

The programme was also featured by the second "possible" of the season—the first was achieved by J. Cavanagh's Craigengower four. F. X. Soares's Recreio rink (F. A. Xavier, P. Yvanovich, and Dr. R. Basto) achieved the feat on the tenth head they improved to 29-12 at the 21st end. Each member, we understand, will be the recipient of a bottle of King George IV Whisky in recognition of the feat from Gande, Price & Co., Ltd. A Brooksbanks' Football Club rink recorded a "seven" against W. H. B. Muskett, A. R. Dallah, and R. F. Luz.

Nourse Again Shows
Good Form

MERCER BOWLS WELL AT SWANSEA

London, Yesterday.
The South Africans secured their fifth win in the course of seven matches when they beat Hampshire yesterday by 110 runs—Oxford University and the M.C.C. have held them to draws. A. D. Nourse, who has already hit three centuries, contributed a stylish 75, while Crisp was responsible for the tourists' lead of 107 on the first innings. Arnold, one of England's most promising opening batsmen, played a plucky innings for 79 when Hampshire were set 356 to win in the fourth innings.

Fine bowling by Mercer, one of the veterans of the game, enabled Glamorgan to beat Worcester by 18 runs on the first innings at Swansea. Faced with the task of scoring 260 to win, the visitors lost six wickets for 149, Mercer claiming 11 victims in the match for 148 runs.

Results, as cable by Router, were as follow:
Glamorgan beat Worcestershire on the first innings at Swansea. Glamorgan 279 and 241 for 9 dec. Worcesters: 261 (Mercer 6 for 53) and 149 for 6 (Mercer 5 for 65).

Cambridge University drew with Nottinghamshire at Cambridge. Nottingham: 345 (A. Staples 125) and 249 (Rough 7 for 100). Cambridge: 405 (Bartlett 183).

The South Africans beat Hampshire by 110 runs at Southampton. South Africans: 304 (A. D. Nourse 75) and 248. Hampshire: 197 (Crisp 5 for 59) and 245 (Arnold 79).

EARLIER RESULTS

Yorkshire beat Oxford University by an innings and 59 runs at Oxford. Oxford: 102 (Smalles 5 for 46) and 202. Yorkshire: 453 (Leyland 125).

Lancashire beat Gloucester by 8 wickets at Gloucester. Gloucester: 103 (Booth 7 for 59) and 260. Lancashire: 341 (Washbrook 92) and 84 for 2.

Middlesex beat Somerset by 7 wickets at Lord's. Somerset: 121 and 187 (R. W. V. Robins 5 for 77). Middlesex: 140 (J. Lee 5 for 38) and 170 for 3.

Surrey beat Warwickshire by 10 at the Oval. Warwickshire: 90 (P. G. H. Fender 5 for 27). Surrey: 215 (R. E. S. Wyatt 111 not out, P. G. H. Fender 5 for 70). Surrey: 266 (Fishlock 113 not out) and 39 for 0.

Sussex beat Essex by 63 runs at Brentwood. Sussex: 210 and 145 (Nichols 5 for 41). Essex: 125 (Tate 6 for 26) and 160.

ROMANCE OF POSTAL UNION

The Men Who Dispatch Your Foreign Letters

Fourteen That Manage All International Postage

Geneva. WHEN you stick a stamp on a letter addressed perhaps to some remote spot in the Congo or the Solomon Islands and drop it into the pillar box, says a writer in the Weekly Dispatch, do you ever give a thought to the amazing organization which assures the safe delivery of your missive?

Until the middle of last century sending a letter over-seas was a very complicated business. It had to be taken to the head post office, where the sender was obliged to indicate the route he wished it to follow.

This was no easy task, because transport was so chaotic in those days that a dozen different routes, even between neighbouring countries, were often employed.

All this was changed when the Universal Postal Union was created at Berne in 1874, and a uniform standard of charges for foreign postage came into being.

Difficulties Overcome

The "First World Parliament," as it is rightly called, not only surmounted what at that time appeared to be insuperable technical difficulties, but it laid the basis for a system of interchange which has probably done more to bring the nations of the world together than any other movement in history.

Proof is that the entire organization emerged triumphant from the last war, when international conventions and agreements of all sorts were ruthlessly scrapped.

When I visited the headquarters of the Postal Union at Berne recently I expected to find a vast building employing a small army of officials.

Instead I found a medium-sized villa such as one finds in dozens on the outskirts of the city. The ground floor is occupied by the director, a Swiss, whose "office" more resembles the study of a learned professor than that of the head of a highly technical business concern.

"Everybody Works Here"

When I expressed surprise that the entire staff only numbered 14

he replied with some emphasis, "Yes, but everybody works here"—a fact I quickly realised when I saw the staff juggling with masses of figures and statistics that made the imagination reel.

An interesting fact is that tiny Belgium sends more than three times the number of letters abroad than does Brazil, and seven times more than the Soviet Republic.

The Vatican has a foreign mail of about 118,000, the lowest administration on the list being the Yemen with 5,852.

NEWSPAPER BOYS GAOLED IN CANTON

SEQUEL TO BAN ON JOURNALS

AUTHORITIES TAKE ACTION

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Canton, Yesterday.

As a sequel to the alleged plot by the late Mr. Chu Cho-wen, 12 news boys here are in gaol. They were found selling the Kung Sheung Po, a vernacular paper published in Hong Kong, and the Searchlight, another outport bi-weekly, both of which published inside stories concerning the death of Chu.

An official military communiqué stated that Chu was shot and killed by a guard when attempting to escape detention, while the two foregoing papers insisted that Chu was summarily executed at Shek Kee near Macao. This report enraged the military authorities here, who ordered the police to confiscate such misleading journals.

The Kung Sheung Po, owned substantially by a prominent Hong Kong resident, is a well respected paper which publishes a considerable amount of political news relating to Canton and South China. During the past two years, it has

The conundrum of who gets the fee charged on a letter, say, from London to Tokyo, is really less complicated than it seems.

Time was when neighbouring countries had special arrangements with each other for the transit of mails through their respective territories, which, of course, often meant discrimination against other countries.

Common Basis

Now, thanks to the Postal Union Convention, transit charges are established upon a common basis.

The country of origin is responsible for the partition of the original postal fee, which is made through the Bureau of the Postal Union.

Each country establishes its postal charges on an equivalent corresponding as far as possible to the value of its currency to the gold franc.

The amount owing for transport charges from one country to another is established every three years, when a gigantic "census" of foreign mails is held.

During 14 days the postal administrations of all countries carefully check and weigh every sack of mail leaving, or passing through their territory. Special sacks are used for the different types of mail, enabling officials to see at a glance the nature of the contents.

Facilitating Checking

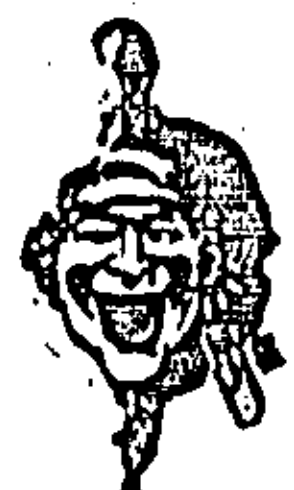

Each sack must be of a given weight to facilitate checking. Multiplied by 26 the figures for 14 days thus obtained give the average volume of traffic for one year.

At the end of the "census" each country compiles a list showing the amount owing to it for transit charges by other administrations. With the aid of this information debit and credit balances are then established by the Bureau at Berne.

Only on rare occasions, however, are actual cash settlements made between debtor and creditor States, the Bureau acting as a kind of clearing-house through which accounts are settled on the compensation system.

had a very good circulation here, as local papers do not print much political news owing to its delicate nature.

High Canton officials consider the Searchlight particularly obnoxious as it goes onto the "life and letters" of big men and probes political secrets. This paper has a high literary style and is widely read here.

WISE & OTHERWISE

Overheard
"How do you do? I've heard a great deal about you."
"But you can't prove it."

TRUTH

Some wives never believe their husbands. But when I get home late and begin, "Now I know you won't believe what I'm going to tell you," my wife always believes that bit.

FINISHED

We are told that clothes reflect the man. By that time, however, you old navy blue suit is due to be thrown away.

HINT

If you must borrow, always borrow from a pessimist. He doesn't expect to get his money back anyway.

By Old Dame Experience

"I've made a frightful mess somewhere in my domestic accounts this week. Can't find out where. ... But I must have... I've got $5 left for myself."

Love And All That

"Am I the only girl you've ever kissed?"
"Yes."
"Yes... you kiss like it."

DA-DER-DA-DER

A wireless writer says nobody knows who first invented crooning. Well, that's one bit of luck for him, anyway.

SOLVED

A contest is being held to discover the ten most beautiful words in the English language. I know them—"Here is the $10 I borrowed from you last week."

For This Relief—

It has been discovered that because of wireless fever children now learn to play the piano. This is probably the greatest of all wireless benefits.

INHUMAN NATURE

A man in Arkansas shot a fellow who ran off with his wife. If ever I hear of a worse case of ingratitude I'll let you know.

Sporting Note

A boxing trainer says many a fighter has lost a match through eating too much. When in the ring, of course, he is not allowed to have a second helping.

"Think it will rain this afternoon?"

"I should not be surprised—I have a new hat, a fresh shoeshine and the car has just been washed."

Soliloquy in My Bedroom at Midnight

Every dog has his day...and every cat her date.

REFLECTION

It's marriage that puts the bill into responsibility.

PAT ON THE BACK
"Weather experts have become remarkably efficient of late," says a writer. They don't often bear false witness, in other words.

Cause And Effect

The habit of holding a grand celebration on the occasion of a silver wedding is dying out in America, we are told. So is the habit of having silver weddings.

"I made extensive trial of Kalzana in a case of Neuroses. I have been surprised at the great value of Kalzana in toning up the nervous system."
—B.A., L.R.C.P., L.R.C.S.

Irritability

Very often that irritable feeling is due to nothing else but a lack of certain minerals in the body. Start taking Kalzana, the mineral food, for a time. In the majority of instances this results in a remarkable improvement in health, especially in cases of Nervous Irritability, Nerve Pains and Neuralgia.

Prof. C. A. Ronzevalle, M.A. (London), writes about his experience with Kalzana:

"I was just recovering from a nervous breakdown, when 'Kalzana' was brought to my notice. I started taking Kalzana without delay and the results so far have been surprising: the digestive organs are able to cope successfully with any kind of food, the neuralgic pains in the face have disappeared and there is a general sense of well-being and fitness which I have not known for some time past."

Kalzana contains the vital minerals that build power of resistance in the body and tone-up the function of all the organs. Kalzana is not a drug, but a mineral food which must do you good. Start your course to-day and you will soon enjoy sound health again.

Tourism

MANKIND is governed by fashion, and there are not fashions in clothes set by the "smart set," and fashions in thought set by philosophers, but fashions in contempt set by what it is now the fashion to call the "intelligentsia." Perhaps no such fashion has been so embedded in prejudice and so easy to observe as the contempt of the "tourist," who after all is only a traveller who is not bent on doing business and who is limited in time. Under the circumstances the best thing he can do so as to get the value of his time and his money is to place himself in the hands of an Agency, and by so doing to share expenses with others who are in the same position as himself. Otherwise he is simply a man and a brother who happens to be out of his usual setting.

The origin of the prejudice is easy to trace, and has its support in a traditional snobbery. For at least two hundred years it was the custom of the wealthy to send their sons, and less frequently their daughters, on the "Grand Tour," which was both an arduous and an expensive undertaking in the days of travelling by stage coaches and very problematical hotels. It involved long and intricate preparations not only by means of letters of credit to approved merchants and goldsmiths and other people who used to do the work that is now done by our Banks; but letters of introduction to old acquaintances, often the Ambassador or someone on the staff, who would, without question, introduce the stranger to the fashionable salons of the day, and enable him to meet the "wits" and the dandies. The whole system has little modern analogy except in some of the newer countries where strangers are rarely seen. The entertainment of casual visitors would nowadays be felt as a serious burden by the residents of the modern ports, who are ready enough to extend hospitality to old friends. The whole of the old system as recorded in the memoirs of the time tells of a society which was much more like a family party in its independence of national frontiers. It was killed by the long years of separation due to the Napoleonic wars; but in the earlier periods nothing is more remarkable than the easy terms of personal acquaintance on which the distinguished men of all the European countries corresponded with each other.

The advent of travellers with the necessary money derived from industry, but without the social entree naturally ended the period when all travellers were welcomed; but in any case the age of haste by killing the art of conversation, which requires time as well as wide interests, was bound to destroy the old salon where that delicate art was practised. There was not, however, any reason why the new tourist should be condemned as a "globe-trotter" merely because he made the best use of his opportunities, — unless he wrote a book and assumed a profound knowledge of which he had hardly begun to get a smattering. That stage has now passed, and the tourist is quite content to be just himself, — an ordinary man seeing the world.

That is to-day the sort of man who controls history, little as his appearance might suggest it. He has a new interest in foreign countries, and it is all to the good that he thinks in terms of continents rather than a few countries of Western Europe. In fact the mecca of the tourist of the last generation, France, is suffering from the penalty of rapacity symbolised by the imposition of a tax on tourists which has driven millions of francs into other resorts. As compared with five years ago the tourist expenditure in France has fallen by three-fifths; many big hotels are closed; and measures to recover lost ground are under discussion.

As a class the tourist, who may be a smart business man in his town, is singularly open to new impressions, and at the mercy of events, when he lands in a new place. The money is a puzzle; he does not know where to get a taxi; or how to spend his evening. On his experience of the first day or two, especially the first, depends his whole attitude to the people who live there; and there is nothing more needed at the moment than a friendly attitude to foreigners and the world in general.

The recent mission of Mr. W. J. Carrie to Japan is an excellent move, and we hope that he will be able to remove from Hong Kong the "take it or leave it" manner which strangers have as a rule had to complain of.

EMPIRE DAY

TIME passes so quickly that already the origin of Empire Day seems to be generally forgotten. The 24th of May was, of course, Queen Victoria's Birthday, and in that long reign of more than sixty years the publication of the Honours List, the trooping of the colours, and so on had come to be taken as a kind of law of nature on that date. It was a period of race migration that will never be repeated, for there are no more big empty spaces.

The Victorian sentiment was on the whole opposed to celebrations and parades, which were called "flag-wagging." But if England could take its anniversaries for granted the exiles had a different feeling, and the Queen's Birthday was regularly celebrated. Amongst old-fashioned families, for example, taking a girl to her first Government House Ball was the equivalent to "coming out." It was a proclamation to all and sundry that the daughter was now available for social invitations such as dances and dinners.

KING EDWARD'S ACCESSION

THE death of the old Queen, and the accession of King Edward, with a different date, seemed to create a void to which it was difficult for the Colonial home-born man to adjust his mind, and it was actually suggested that the new King should celebrate his birthday on the old date. That would have been rather a slight on the King, which was not intended. The official observance was duly transferred to the new date, and the 24th of May would probably have dropped out of memory gradually, but for one man, Lord Meath. He had always deplored the ignorance in which English children were brought up of the other parts of the King's dominions, and he organised an association to show magic lantern views of the Canadian Rockies, the Australian Bush, the South African veld, with explanatory lectures. The Cinema had not then been dreamed of; and even the idea of showing magic lantern pictures in schools was ridiculed by those who were hidebound to the old idea that the schools existed only to teach "the three Rs," — Reading, Riting, and Rithmetic. One seems to go back to a different age when recalling that that was the accepted creed of the majority. The members of the Birmingham School Board were charged by the Government Auditor for the purchase of a piano for musical drill, and for about a year the piano question was hotly debated.

VICTORIA DAY

IN the "Colonies" the idea of "Victoria Day," as it was then called, had a very different reception. Magic lanterns and circularised lectures were eagerly accepted. A genuine attempt was made to interest the children in the other Colonies and India, and (Continued on Page 14.)

THE HON. MR. C. G. ALABASTER, O.B.E., K.C.

This is the forty-third of the exclusive series of sketches of leading Colony residents by Mr. A. S. Konya, the talented Hungarian artist.

THE Hon. Mr. Chaloner Grenville Alabaster, O.B.E., K.C., Attorney-General of the Colony of Hong Kong, is the eldest surviving son of the late Sir Chaloner Alabaster, K.C.M.G., a former British Consul in China. He was born in Hankow and taken to England as a baby, made his first return visit to China in 1886, at the age of six.

Educated at Tonbridge School, he was in 1899 appointed to classify and catalogue the collection of Chinese porcelain in the National Museum at Dublin. In 1901 he entered the Honourable Society of the Inner Temple and was called to the Bar in 1904, when he joined the Western Circuit. From 1907 to 1909 he was Secretary of the China Association in London. In 1909 he married Miss Mabel Winifred Mary Mainwaring, daughter of Col. E. P. Mainwaring, (who herself received the M.B.E. in 1928) and came out to practise at the Hong Kong Bar.

He was Acting Attorney General in 1911 and 1912 and was made a Justice of the Peace in the latter year.

During 1912 and 1913 he edited and produced the revised edition of the Laws of Hong Kong, receiving the thanks of the Legislative Council for his services.

From 1914 to 1917, during the Great War, he was Deputy Censor of Cables, and in 1918 received the honour of the O.B.E. He served as an elected member of the Sanitary Board from 1917 to 1926 and was elected as Representative Member of the Justices of the Peace on the Legislative Council in 1919, 1924, and 1926. In addition to this he has been a member of the Licensing Board since 1912.

In 1928 and 1930 he was again Acting Attorney General and was confirmed in the substantive appointment early in 1931. During his absence on leave in 1934 he was attached to the Legal Advisers' Department at the Colonial Office.

FIVE YEARS AGO

(Extracts from the Sunday Herald of May 25, 1930.)

One hundred and fifty-one Mauser pistol magazines and 716 tins of prepared opium were discovered in a matchbox when the police carried out a raid at Taun Wan Village, New Territories. Two men were arrested on the same day at 4 p.m.

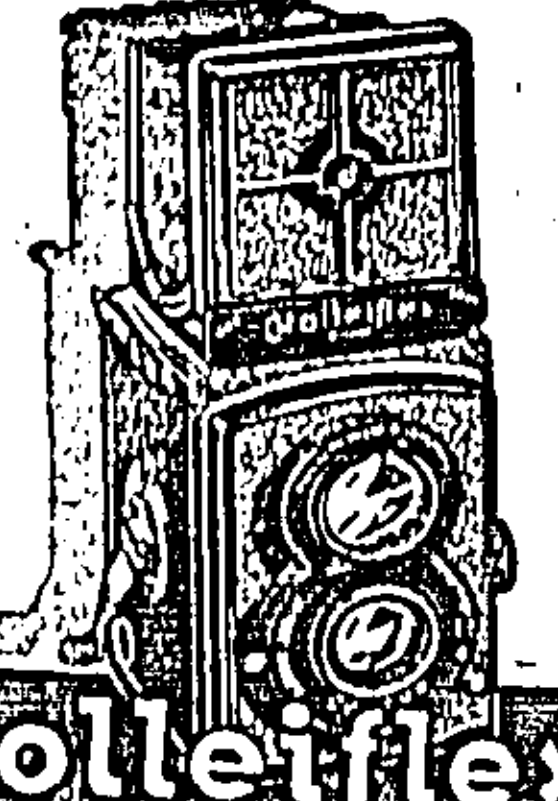

The efficiency of the Kowloon Fire Brigade was conclusively demonstrated when two fire appliances, with their sirens screaming all along the route, rushed, in record time, to a Chinese lantern fire in Woosung Street, only to find that their services were not required. Only one lantern had caught fire.

Many sincere tributes were paid at a farewell dinner party given at Lane Crawford's Restaurant by the accountancy staff of the Navy, Army and Air Force Institute, in honour of Mr. Henry Hale, A.C.I.S., who left for Home by the s.s. Mantua.

Percy The Pangolin

THE Pangolin is without question the most primitive and one of the quaintest mammals to be found in South China. The two most primitive sub-classes of the class Mammalia, namely the Prototheria (Platypus and Spiny Anteater) and the Metatheria (Kangaroos, Wallabies, Opossums, etc.) are not found in Asia, but are confined to Australia in the first case and to Australia and the New World in the second. All the rest of the living mammals belong to the third sub-class, Eutheria, and of the several orders the most primitive is the Edentata, meaning having no teeth. This order includes Sloths, Anteaters and Armadillos of the New World, the Aard-varks or Ant-bears of Africa and the Pangolins or Scaly Anteaters found in Africa and Asia. Notice that our local Pangolin is not an Armadillo, creatures which are confined to America.

This last week, whilst returning by car from Tai Po, we overtook a Pangolin journeying in the same direction, though not quite as fast, as we were. The car was stopped and we alighted to examine this most primitive mammal. Percy was hauled out from some undergrowth by its tail—not the only largest external appendage of its body but much the easiest to grasp. He was a friendly creature and allowed himself to be photographed; even when placed on a nearby bank he showed no desire to run off and posed resignedly and quietly for his portrait. Finally he was placed near some thick undergrowth and shooed in, lest some foot-slogging Chinese should collect him for the pot.

Manis pentadactyla is an interesting animal. He is quite devoid of teeth—a rare characteristic of living mammals, with the exception of elders of the human race—but his most noticeable feature is his coat of overlapping scales. These scales clothe the top of his head and body and his limbs and very large tail. Short coarse hairs are to be found on the sides of the head and under surfaces of neck and body and inner surface of legs. The eyes are small but bright, the external ears are not well developed but nevertheless are easily seen. The long and worm-like tongue can be protruded to a great distance in front of the tubular mouth and each of the limbs is furnished with five toes terminating in long powerful claws.

The Pangolin is able easily to dig up and excavate the nests of termites and ants and lick up their numerous inhabitants. It is nocturnal like all our native mammals, and has the power of rolling itself into a ball, covering its face with its tail and thus being secure from most enemies—except man.

During the course of his speech at the annual general meeting of the shareholders of Cable and Wireless Ltd., held in London on Friday, the Chairman was able to present results which showed a very definite and marked improvement on those of the past year, and which reflected a much more satisfactory position. Dividends from subsidiary companies showed an increase of £300,000 over the highest figure in the three preceding years; the income derived from investments was at the rate of £4.5 per cent. The profits of operating the parent company increased from £209,562 in 1933 to £325,546 in 1934, while

KING GEORGE'S JUBILEE
Chinese Participation In The Celebrations
SIR WM. PEEL'S THANKS

In connection with the wholehearted Chinese participation in the recent Jubilee celebrations, the following exchange of letters took place before the departure of the retiring Governor, Sir William Peel, from the Colony:—

The Honourable
The Chinese Members of the Legislative Council,
Hong Kong.
Government House,
Hong Kong, 16th May, 1935.
Gentlemen,—I desire to convey to you my very special appreciation of the splendid contribution of the Chinese community towards the celebration of His Majesty's Silver Jubilee.

The loyal enthusiasm, of which the magnificent processions were proof, and the well-ordered behaviour of the crowds, have left an indelible impression on my memory, and I shall be glad if you will convey to the Chinese community my warmest thanks for their willing co-operation in the celebrations.

I have the honour to be,
Gentlemen,
Your most obedient servant,
(Sd) W. Peel
Governor, &c.,

MR. KOTEWALL'S REPLY

China Building, 5th Floor,
Hong Kong, 26th May, 1935.
The Hon. Mr. N. L. Smith,
Secretary for Chinese Affairs,
Sir—On behalf of the Hon. Dr. S. W. T'so, the Hon. Mr. T. N. Chau and myself, I have the honour to acknowledge with thanks the receipt of your letter of May 17, forwarding a letter from His Excellency the Governor, Sir William Peel, expressing his appreciation of the contribution which the Chinese community was able to make towards the successful celebration of His Majesty's Silver Jubilee.

This expression of His Excellency's appreciation has given us great satisfaction as, we are sure, it will give to the Chinese community when this correspondence is published. While the success of the festivities was no doubt in part due to the enthusiastic co-operation of the Chinese community, it is but fair to say that, in our opinion, an equal share of the credit should go to yourself for your able guidance and understanding and co-operation as the Chairman of the Chinese Festivities Committee, and to the Police with which they discharged their arduous duties during the three days of the celebration.

I have the honour to be,
Sir,
Your obedient servant,
(Sd) R. H. KOTEWALL.

HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN
QUEEN MARY'S BIRTHDAY
LOYAL HELPMATE TO KING
BRITISH EMPIRE OFFERS CONGRATULATIONS

Britons throughout the world will offer their congratulations to-day to Her Majesty Queen Mary, who was born Princess Victoria Mary of Teck on May 26, 1867, and who has been a constant and loyal helpmate to her Royal husband for 42 years.

In nothing has the King been more fortunate than in his married life. Princess Mary was the first British-born subject to marry an heir to the throne since Anne Hyde, the wife of James II. Already well known to the public as the high-spirited daughter of that active woman Princess Mary of Teck, she gained the deep sympathy of the public in her bereavement by the death of the Duke of Clarence soon after their betrothal was announced. It was recognised as the happiest possible decision to make towards the successful months later, she found consolation in the affection of his brother.

The Royal pair had been playmates since they were children, and thus they started their life together with a full knowledge of each other, which soon ripened into something more than the association which might have attended any ordinary marriage of convenience. That the marriage has been a conspicuous success nobody will deny; except when public engagements or other duty required it, the King and Queen have rarely and never for long been separated.

ROYAL SALUTE TO-MORROW

A Royal Salute of 21 guns will be fired by the Royal Navy to-morrow in honour of Her Majesty Queen Mary's 68th birthday to-day.

The Royal pair are happiest, individually and together, in the domestic sphere. The Queen is faithful to the scriptural injunction as to the ruling of her own household. She is familiar with the management of her kitchen, and in furnishing and decoration she has an expert skill and faultless taste. But never have the Royal couple allowed outside influences or the duties of State to interfere unduly in their home life, which is as simple and unpretentious as that of the least of their citizens. It has long been the custom, for instance, for a family party to be held at Christmas, where the King and Queen, surrounded by their sons and daughters, and in later years, their grandchildren, have fully entered into that domestic harmony which is such a feature of the home life of English people everywhere.

A very great deal was written and said during the recent Jubilee celebrations about the part the King has played in the lives and affections of his people during his 25 years' reign. If the King played in this happy consummation was not unduly stressed, it was not for want of evidence. For the King himself, in many utterances, aances, public and private, has repeatedly paid tribute to the Queen's loving influence; while the Company is paying a dividend of 4 per cent, as against her dealings with her subjects, are by now almost legendary. The report and accounts were will sincerely wish Her Majesty

WEDDING AT REGISTRY
HILL-GRAVESON
HONEYMOON AT REPULSE BAY HOTEL

The wedding of Mr. David Smith Hill and Miss Kathleen Naomi Graveson was performed by Mr. Whyte-Smith at the Registry Office, Supreme Court, yesterday morning.

The bride carried a bouquet of pink African daisies and looked radiant in a dress of mist-blue net. She was given away by Mr. John Robinson of Messrs. Bradley and Company, Swatow, while Mrs. Robinson acted as Matron of Honour, looking charming in a pink and blue flowered voile frock. She carried a bouquet of pink gladioli.

After the reception, which was held at the Hong Kong Electric Recreation Club, Ming Yuen, the happy couple left for the Repulse Bay Hotel, where they will spend their honeymoon.

The bridegroom is the only son of the late Mr. R. Hill and Mrs. Hill of Dundee, Angus, Scotland, and the bride is the youngest daughter of the late Mr. F. F. Graveson and Mrs. Graveson, of Wallasey, Cheshire.

CHINESE COUPLES WEDDED

Registrar Of Marriages Has Busy Morning

The Registrar of Marriages, Mr. T. S. Whyte-Smith, had a busy morning yesterday, when he officiated at the weddings of four Chinese couples at the Registry Office, Supreme Court.

Mr. Leung Lim-cheung, a shoemaker in the employ of Messrs. Jardine, Matheson and Co., residing at No. 30 Connaught Road, First Floor, son of the late Mr. Leung Man-nin, was married to Miss Cheung Wan-ha, of No. 198 Lockhart Road, Hong Kong. The bride is the daughter of the late Mr. Cheung Mak-lam, and the ceremony was witnessed by Mr. Tam Tak-chuen and Mr. Leung Yan-cheung.

Miss Tang Yuet-ngo, living at No. 273 Cheung Sha Wan, Shumshuipo, the daughter of the well-known Government contractor, Mr. Tang Him-kwong, became the bride of Mr. Koo Shui-wing, of the Sincere Life Assurance Co., residing at No. 176 Connaught Road, Hong Kong, the son of Mr. Koo Ka-nam, retired merchant. The bride's father was the only witness.

Mr. Eric Lee, an electrical engineer, residing at No. 2 Han Ho Wong Road, Kowloon City, the son of Mr. Lee Wan-cho, a merchant, was married to Miss Pauline Wong, of No. 64 Taiipo Road, Shumshuipo, the daughter of Mr. Wong Ho-chuen. Mr. N. K. Ann and Mr. Li Chok-chung were the witnesses.

Mr. Kwan E. Chong, a merchant living at No. 264 Hennessy Road, Hong Kong, the son of the late Mr. Kwan Chung-fong, was married to Miss Woo Shan-man, whose address was given as No. 250 Hennessy Road, Hong Kong, the daughter of Mr. Woo Ting-shan, chief officer on the s.s. Yuen-on. Mr. E. S. Kwan, brother of the bridegroom, and Mr. T. E. Roger Woo, uncle of the bride, were witnesses of the ceremony.

FERRY FARES INCREASED

One-Cent Raise For Third-Class

Complying with instructions received from the Government, the Hong Kong-Yunnan Ferry Company, Limited, announce that third-class fares on their launches, which ply between the mainland and the island, will be increased by one cent, commencing as from to-morrow.

Prior to the abolition of second-class fares the first-class fare was 10 cents, second-class four cents, and third-class two cents, but from to-morrow third-class fares will be charged at the rate of three cents per head, and first-class fare remaining, as before, 10 cents.

Everything that is conveyed in the good old words: "Many happy returns of the day." Long may she live, happily to continue to take her share in reigning over

The Nearness Of God's Presence
He Is Always There When We Seek Him
Need Of Him In Every Part Of Our Lives

(By The Rev. J. N. Lewis Bryan)

THERE are many people who are quite content, as far as their religion goes, with an occasional acknowledgment of God. They are only prepared to approach Him at stated seasons and observe rigid periods of worship.

Having done their duty in this way, they then place Him completely outside their thoughts and their lives. When they take off their Sunday clothes they remove their religion and lock it away in the cupboard; and for the rest of the week it plays no part in their work or business, their games or their leisure.

It is not in this way that religion can bring strength or joy into our lives and be of real and lasting value. The writer of the Psalm in which the words occur "When I awake I am still with Thee" realised the truth of this—that our recognition of God must be continuous, if we would know His presence in times of discouragement and His "joy that cometh in the morning."

Thoughts That Remain
In some amazing way, if we go to sleep mastered by some thought, it is still there when we awake; in fact, if there is anything that we particularly want to remember, the best thing is to let it be the last thought in our minds just before we lie down to sleep. It was because the Psalmist lived with God and went to sleep (as it were) under the shadow of His wing, that He could write in all sincerity "When I awake I am still with Thee."

When we widen out that thought, we find that it "applies to life in many of its awakenings. Think of the child, for instance, awakening into maturity. It has been pictured many times, but the saddest of all was that drawn by the poet Wordsworth, who viewed it as the closing of the prison-house. But surely it is rather the awakening from a sleep that has been tenanted by dreams to the realities of life in all its complexity, and to the knowledge of the battle that has to be waged. The world of a child is clothed in the radiance of imagination—a place where everything is possible. Then with the passing years there comes experience and the unveiling of what is grim and stern. Childhood things are put away. We awaken to a world from which much of the merriment and play have vanished.

Awakening
Then there comes the comfort of the fact that we still have God with us; in our sorest duties, in our heaviest sorrows, in our humblest tasks, if they are valiantly tackled and with all our hearts. And in the joy of awakening we find God and His grace are more wonderful than in the earlier morning when we dreamed.

Again these words apply when we think of the awakening to new knowledge. Sometimes it has seemed that, when knowledge has broadened, God has been driven from the field. When it thundered the Hebrews would say: "It is the voice of God." In the gleaming light they thought they saw His chariot. But in the light and

Awakened
He has been false to Him; not He to us. He has been longing to show us His love again; and it often shines brightest after those periods when we were slumbering, when the eyes of our trust were sealed in sleep.

We find the truth of those words, too, in times of sorrow and suffering; for in all great sorrow there is something numbing, an insensibility like that of sleep. It is one of the triumphs of modern medicine that it can apply opiates so powerfully. And God has His opiates, when the physician fails. There is mercy in that numbing of the spirit, or the worst might be unbearable. When vividness of perception might be torture, God gives to His beloved sleep. And it is when man awakens from that sleep that he can lift up his heart and find that God is still there and know that not for one moment has he been really alone; for there are no regions where God has never travelled. Even down to the very bitterness of death God, in the Crucifixion, has gone before.

You can never awaken to the biting day and say: "Of this I know nothing," as did the ancient Greeks when life with its sorrows outdistanced the old Gods, for life with its bitterness and heaviest work can never out-distance God in the Person of Jesus Christ.

LOCAL DOLLAR STEADYSilver Prices Fall

The local dollar is steady, opening on demand yesterday morning at 2/6.

Spot silver fell 1/2 to 34 1/2 and forward to 34 1/2.

The London on New York cross-rate was quoted at £—U.S.$4.94 1/2, as compared with £—U.S.$4.92, while the New York on London cross-rate was quoted at £—U.S.$4.90, as compared with £—U.S.$4.92 1/2.

SHARE MARKETMr. G. A. Harriman's Weekly Report

Messrs. G. A. Harriman & Co.'s weekly share report and market review issued at noon yesterday states:—

The market during the week under review continued its downward trend and prices in some instances sagged to new low levels, the volume of trading being moderate. The main feature of the week was the sharp drop in Hong Kong Tram and Hong Kong Electric, the former being on offer at $11.75 and the latter having been done down to $5 1/2. Hong Kong Lands registered a further decline with sales effected at $30/31, closing in demand at $29. Star Ferries could be obtained at $77 without attracting buyers, Dairy Farms dropped sharply to a selling rate of $13. Telephones (old) declined from $19 to $18.25 closing with buyers at the latter rate. Minor issues were again easier. Hotels were put through at $4 closing in demand at $3.90. China Lights changed hands at declining rates from $8.25 to $7.90. Cements (converted) were dealt in at $5.80 without any response. Providents (old) were dealt in at 75 cents. In the Sterling section Hong Kong Banks again came to business at $995/1010, but Union were a shade easier with sales effected at $335/40. The tone of the market at the close was dull.

Business during the week has been done at the following prices:—

H.K. Banks $995/1010.

Unions $335/40.

GERMANY BUILDING MORE AIRSHIPS

Particular attention has been given in the building of L. Z. 129 to averting the danger of fire. A very much greater measure of safety is expected through the substitution of heavy oil for petrol as fuel, and the use of helium gas for lifting the airship. The use of heavy oil will also reduce running costs appreciably. Helium, though much more expensive than hydrogen, and having a 10 per cent. weight lift, is non-inflammable. But since the United States is the only country which possesses this gas in sufficient quantities the trial flights in Europe will be made on hydrogen.

Four Diesel Engines

Four Diesel engines have been installed and together they can develop 4,400 horsepower, while the airship can carry 132,000 pounds of heavy oil for supplies.

The new airship in addition to having a greater speed than the Graf Zeppelin—81 as compared with 75 miles per hour—will also be bigger in all respects. Instead of a length of 775 feet and a maximum diameter of 100 feet, the dimensions of the L. Z. 129 will be 813 and 133 feet, respectively. The latter's gas capacity will also be 7,000,000, as compared with 4,000,000 cubic feet, and it will carry three more gas cells, that is 16 in all. Its lifting capacity will be 100 long tons.

Improved Accommodations There will also be increased passenger accommodation in the new airship. The Graf Zeppelin has only one deck measuring 1,100 square feet, with a main lounge, two smaller saloons and cabins for 24 persons. The L. Z. 129 has two decks, to starboard and larboard, with an area of 4,300 square feet. Between the decks are a large dining-room, a hall, reading and writing rooms, smoke-room and berths for 50 passengers.

The new airship is to be named the Hindenburg. It will make its trial flights during the coming summer and should these prove successful, it is intended to make a trial trip from Germany to the United States soon afterwards.

The initiation of a regular service across the North Atlantic route, similar to that now made over the South Atlantic to Brazil, is then only a matter of time. The plans have already been worked out, and since the Hindenburg will cover the distance in half the time of the fastest liner of the present North Atlantic service, there should be good business, since it is declared the price will be such as to make the saving in time worthwhile.

Long List of Z's

L. Z. 129, as its name indicates, is the 129th Zeppelin which has been built at Friedrichshafen. Germany's name is indisputably linked with airship invention, but it may not be generally remembered that even before the war, in the years 1910-1914, Germany operated six commercial airships which carried a total of 37,000 passengers without mishap. The achievements of the Zeppelins during the last war are well known, especially in England, which suffered from their raids.

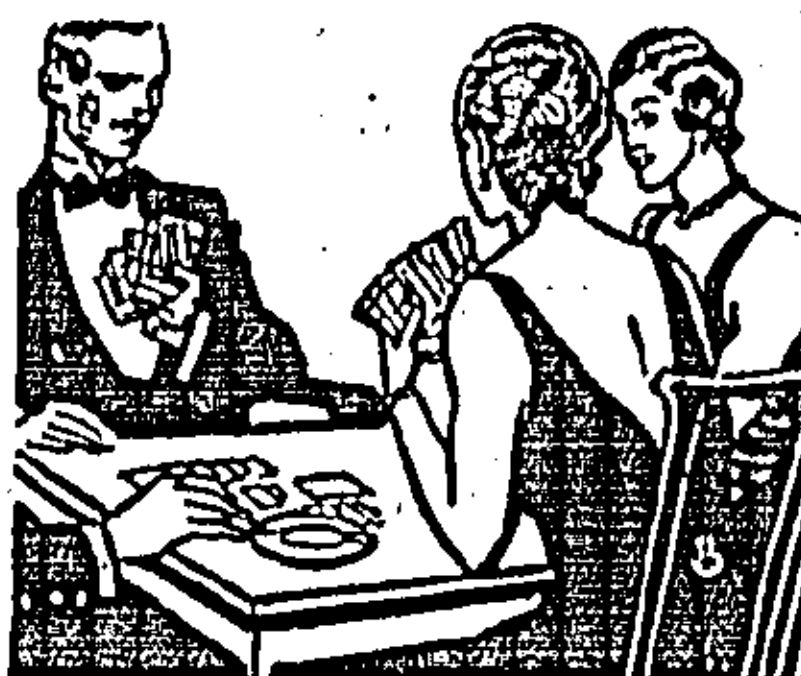

After 1918, Germany again turned to building commercial airships, but was much discouraged by the fact that the two which it completed in the following two years were handed over, the one to France, and the other to Italy, by the Inter-Allied Control Commission, and a third (uncompleted) became the property of the United States in part payment of reparations claims. Fortunately, the Zeppelin works were not dismantled at that time. In 1927, the construction of new airships was begun anew and in the following year the Graf Zeppelin was completed and launched.

German experts hope for a more successful career for the new airship than even that achieved by the illustrious Graf Zeppelin, which now operates a regular scheduled service between Friedrichshafen and Rio de Janeiro, across the South Atlantic. That ship has flown more than 1,000,000 kilometres (621,000 miles), carried 27,000 passengers, more than 5,000-

CONTRACT BRIDGE

An Opening Bid Problem

By Lieut.-Col. H.M. Beasley

DO we make the best use of the opening bid of "two in a suit?"

This important feature of Contract tactics has been the subject of much discussion among players for some years, and even to-day there exist two schools with very divergent views.

The first school are the "Approach Forcers"—who retain the opening bid of two in a suit solely for the purpose of indicating a very powerful game-going hand—one which contains not more than four probable losing tricks. Everyone hopes to pick up hands of this order, but on the average you will be lucky if five per cent. of the hands you get reach this standard.

The second school, who sometimes call themselves "Natural" or "Common-sense bidders," uses this opening two bid in a suit to indicate a hand of slightly less strength than the one referred to above—one that is too strong for an opening bid of one; a hand which contains five or six probable losing tricks.

Both these methods of employing the two-bid have their advantages and drawbacks. The "Approach Forcers" contend that the natural two-bid suffers from the following disadvantages:—

(1)—It warns the opponents that you hold a fairly strong hand, invites them to be cautious, and lessens any chance you may have had of inflicting a penalty which might have resulted from a rash over-call.

(2)—The bidding starts at a high level; consequently the opportunities for partners to exchange information are fewer than if the bidding were started on a lower level; therefore:

(3)—If the combined hands happen to be a distributional

000 postal packets and 40 tons of freight without mishap. Soon after the launching of the L. Z. 129 work will be begun on a new airship, L. Z. 130.

misfit, this fact may not be discovered until a level has been reached where there is a danger of incurring a penalty.

The school of "Approach Forcers" are of opinion that an opening two-bid on a hand of the above order is unnecessary, and maintain that if you open with a bid of one, and ask the partner to keep the bidding open, if he holds about a trick and a half, the disadvantages of a two-bid are eliminated.

These arguments in favour of the one-bid are perfectly sound. Nevertheless, the natural two-bid has compensating advantages:—

(a)—The task of the responding hand is greatly facilitated by the knowledge that his partner's hand is fairly strong; consequently

(b)—If an incautious opponent decides to make an intervening bid, the partner can make an overbid or double with a certain degree of confidence.

(c)—The natural two-bid cuts off communication between opponents to a certain extent, and prevents them from exchanging information at a low level; and

(d)—It reduces to a very great extent the value of any intervening bluff or psychic bids. The natural two-bid loses all its advantages when it is employed without the necessary qualifications, and unless a certain minimum strength is fixed as a basis, this type of bidding may lead you into trouble.

Let us now consider the type of hands which would justify an opening natural two-bid. These hands must contain both offensive and defensive values, and probably the best method of appraising the value of a hand is to use the numerical point count for honours.

Acc. 4 points; King; 3; Queen; 2, and Jack; 1; and for distributional values in the trump suit and three points to the value of the hand for every trump in excess of five.

If the total value of the hand amounts to 16 points, you may be assured that on the average you have a fairly sound opening natural bid of two.

Here are some examples:

S—A 6
H—A K 10 7 5 4
D—9
C—K Q 8 6

Bid two Hearts.

This hand has a total numerical value of 19 points—16 for the honours and three for the extra trump. It contains both defensive and offensive strength.

Hand 2:
S—A Q J 10 7
H—J 6
D—9
C—A K J 9 4

Bid two Spades.

This hand just totals 16 points; is offensively strong, but defensively not quite so strong as hand 1.

If you are in doubt as to whether your hand is strong enough to open with a bid of two, you may ask yourself the following question:—

Can I expect to make a game count of eight points? If the answer to this question is "Yes," open with a bid of two. Otherwise, if you decide that there is any doubt about it, open with a bid of one.

WOMEN'S CONFERENCE IN HONG KONG

To Be In Conjunction With Trade Fair

SOCIAL RELATIONSHIPS TO BE FOSTERED

The first meeting of the Anglo-Chinese Women's Committee of the British Empire and China Trade Fair was held at 10.30 o'clock on Thursday morning at Government House, and was graciously opened by Lady Southern, O.B.E., President of the Committee.

Lady Southern expressed the Committee's desire to further the aims of the Women's Conference to be held in connection with the Trade Fair in December, after which she turned the business of the meeting over to Lady Shenton, Chairman of the Committee.

The purpose of the meeting was to discuss plans for the Women's Conference, which will be inaugurated the second week of the Fair—from December 9 to December 16—and to formulate a definite programme of welcome and entertainment for the women from all parts of the Empire and Dominions who will be in Hong Kong at that time.

The object of the Women's Conference during the Trade Fair is to make it possible for the women of China to meet the women of the British Empire, to become acquainted with their various points of view and to establish a mutual understanding and friendship.

Aims To Be Supported

As Lady Shenton took over the business of the meeting, she put the motion that, "Those present at the meeting agree unanimously that the aims of the Women's Conference at the Trade Fair should be fully supported, and that the Committee will be pleased to welcome the women delegates and to entertain them to the best of their ability." This motion was seconded by Mrs. R. H. Kotewall.

The meeting was then thrown open to discussion of the numerous projects under consideration, and a tentative programme was drawn up, suggesting booths for exhibitions of Gardening, Arts and Crafts, a Baby Show and Cake-making demonstrations. Lectures and informal talks to be given by representative Chinese Ladies on ancient customs of their country, welfare work for women, education and the differences between Old China and Young China.

The International Club, represented at the meeting by Mrs. I. Dunbar, Mrs. D. M. Biggar, Mrs. H. F. Sommers, Mrs. Peter Tod and Mrs. W. A. Corneli, volunteered to entertain the delegates at a Tea to be held in their Club Rooms, and arrangements were discussed for other social functions, tours about the city and boat trips around the Island.

It was agreed that stands donated by the Fair to charitable organisations should receive 10 per cent. of the proceeds from the sale of goods by those societies.

Dominion Representatives

In addition to the British Empire being eminently represented by Lady Southern and Lady Shenton, the following ladies represented the Dominions: Mrs. I. B. Trevor and Mrs. J. L. Shellhear, Australia; Mrs. J. B. Newell, South Africa; Mrs. R. D. Walker, Malaya and Mrs. E. N. Reid, Canada. Two distinguished Indian ladies are being requested to represent their country, but so far there is no sponsor for New Zealand.

Others present at the meeting included Mrs. Y. K. Chow, Mrs. R. H. Kotewall, and Miss Shin Tak Hing, who represented China; Mrs. Alfred Macfadyen and Mrs. Beatrice Thompson.

Following light refreshments of tea and cakes, the meeting was adjourned until September, when Mrs. Thompson, who is in charge of the organisation of the Trade Fair, returns to Hong Kong from an extensive tour of Canada, New York and England on behalf of the Fair. At this time definite arrangements will be made for the completion of the programme, and Mrs. Thompson will have many interesting things to relate with reference to her trip and final preparations for the official opening in December.

Saunders' Good Display

Turner was very ably supported by Saunders, at inside-right, who snapped up every chance. Saunders was always ready for a pass, and fully earned the three goals which he netted.

Another acquisition to the forward line was Tidley Madison on the left wing. He played an excellent game, and had perfect ball control. His centres were good, and the Rainbow have certainly found a star winger for their Cup team for next season.

Darch's Good Defence

Culver had not much work to do, but was always alert and saved some fine shots. Darch was as reliable as ever in the defence and stopped the few rushes by the Otus attack with ease.

Handley-Page played a great game between the attacks for the Otus, while Watson was the outstanding Otus attacker, but he had little support from his inside-men and many chances went astray.

Neld and Anderson were very safe in the defence and undoubtedly saved the Otus from a heavier defeat.

Otus Opens Scoring

The game opened with a sudden rush on the Rainbow's goal, but Darch and Culver successfully held them out for 15 minutes before Watson snapped up a pass from the wing to open the Otus account with a hard drive.

Aroused by this sudden reverse, the Rainbow livened up somewhat and within two minutes had drawn level through Tidley Madison, who ran in from the left to beat Page with a hard drive.

Good "Hat-Trick"

The Rainbow continued attacking, but neither team were able to add to their score before half-time.

The second half was completely in favour of the Rainbow; the Otus were not allowed to cross the half-way line, and Saunders gave his team victory with three great goals.

WHISKY FOR BOWLERS

Gande, Price Recognises
Outstanding Feats

We are informed that Messrs. Gande, Price and Co. have very generously decided to uphold that old custom of presenting each member of a rink which registers an eight-shot score in League matches or championship games with a bottle of "King George IV" whisky.

TENNIS

with E. C. Fincher and Miss O. Dalziel as their leading combination.

With the exception of Miss A. Mackenzie, who is inclined to play the matter-of-fact kind of tennis, the K.C.C. ladies are just as good as their Chinese opponents.

Mrs. Litton, who was at one time the first ranking lady tennis player in the Colony, is sadly lacking in practice, and Ho Ka-lau will have to excel himself at the net if they are to win.

U.S.R.C. Newcomer

Mrs. Rice-Evans, a newcomer to the League, will probably make her debut for the U.S.R.C. in partnership with Lt. Tollinton, who has a sound knowledge of the game and who has an enormous reach.

Capt. Manners will probably partner Mrs. Reid, while L. Goldman and Miss R. Hancock, the Open Mixed Doubles champions, will play together.

The latter are certain to obtain three sets, while the other two pairings are more than capable of one set each.

SNOOKER

The billiards was very even and T. G. Stokers' narrow win over J. G. Saunders, the home team captain, gave the K.C.C. the victory by 2 points. The highest break was scored by the visiting captain, R. P. Phillips, who chalked up 34 against J. Duncan.

EASTERN SOCCER TEAM TO TOUR SHANGHAI IN JUNE

played scratch Navy teams, and on both occasions won by 6 goals to 2. Leonard and Bowen, of St. Joseph's, were the outstanding players for the Eastern.

These games have been arranged with a view to discovering any loopholes in the team, and so far, it is feared that the present combination will fare badly against any First Division team.

RINKS GAMES TO-DAY

season. Their strength does not lie in the fact that three of them are skippers, for this is very often a weakness, but because they are all bowlers who can adapt themselves swiftly to changed circumstances.

Omar has three men in front of him on whom he can rely and his task should not be a difficult one. The rink composed of J. W. M. Brown, E. C. Fincher, F. Goodwin and A. Hyde-Lay will meet that composed of F. X. Delgado, Dr. N. P. Karanjia, W. J. Howard and Dr. F. S. Fernando (skip) on the Recreation green this afternoon.

Hyde-Lay is not playing at his best just now, so that a win for the K.C.C. bowlers would not be surprising.

LOCAL SPORTSMAN LEAVES

A keen swimmer, he was at one time a regular member of the Shanghai Rowing Club water-polo team and gained Interport honours for the northern port against the Colony.

While in Hong Kong he played for the former Kowloon Swimming Club and later for the European Y.M.C.A.

He is rejoining his wife, who is at present in Scotland, having been Home for some time.

R.C.A. VICTOR'S LATEST

RCA Victor distributors, and in some cities through RCA Victor Phonograph distributors, as well. Standardisation of parts and ingenious design have enabled RCA Victor engineers to achieve a new standard of performance for small portable public address units.

Exceptional tone quality and simplicity of operation are two of the principal features which distinguish this low-cost system, according to Mr. E. C. Grimley, Manager of the RCA Victor International Division. The equipment has been designed so that actual operation is as convenient and fool-proof as that of an ordinary radio receiver, he said. It is only necessary to connect the power plug to the 110-volt, 50-60 cycle household current supply, and plug in the microphone and speaker cables to set the system in operation. The loudspeaker, which is mounted in the cover, may be separated from the rest of the carrying case and suspended from a hook within a 25-foot radius of the speaker cable. The microphone is of the close-talking type with 12 feet of extension cord to assure the minimum of wiring and the maximum of adaptability to varying conditions. The complete unit measures only 8 1/2 inches by 10 1/2 inches by 10 inches.

Matched loudspeaker and amplifier insure faithful reproduction of both voice and recorded music, while the large dynamic loudspeaker is capable of handling the maximum output of the six-watt amplifier without distortion. Provision is made in the new system for attaching portable phonograph turntables as auxiliary equipment where records may be required for musical programmes or to furnish music background for voice announcements.

Most Important Refining Discovery in 75 Years!

REVOLUTIONARY NEW PROCESS TAKES THE "SLUM" OUT OF OIL

How New Clearosol Process Washes Impurities out of oil and makes it last up to 25% longer
Available in Hong Kong to-day!

TO-DAY, the makers of Mobiloil announce a new discovery that will revolutionize the oil industry.

That is no exaggeration. It is a sober, scientific fact. And it affects every person who owns a car and buys oil for it.

Here is the story in brief. Every drop of oil taken from the earth contains "slum"—a sticky mixture of sludge and gum and tar. It has defied every effort to remove it completely UNTIL NOW.

The new Clearosol Process takes it out for the first time—not by filters but by solvents that actually dissolve it.

And here's what happens. With the new Mobiloil in your crankcase, you get up to 25% greater mileage from every quart.

You will get 20% to 50% less carbon formation. Rings and valves stay clean. The wear on all moving parts is reduced tremendously. Fewer repair bills.

These results are conclusive, proved by rigid official tests, in all kinds of engines, in all kinds of weather.

Some day all oils will be free from "Slum." Motorists will demand it. But to-day, only Mobiloil offers you this new saving, this added margin of safety.

Have your crankcase cleaned out to-day. Fill up with slum-free Mobiloil refined by this new Clearosol Process. The price has not been advanced one cent.

WHAT IS "SLUM"?

"Slum" is a combination of sludge and gum and tar. It is present in every drop of crude oil taken from the earth. And, UNTIL NOW, no refining process has ever been able to remove it completely from the motor oil that you buy for your car.

WHY WE REMOVE IT

"Slum" is bad for engines. It cokes on rings, pistons and valves. It fouls spark plugs. Being non-lubricating, it increases engine heat and causes most of the wear and tear to moving parts.

SOME DAY "ALL" OILS WILL BE FREE FROM SLUM

Eventually all companies will refine their oils so as to remove "slum." It will require the erection of new refineries. But motorists will demand this improvement. To-day Mobiloil is the ONLY oil free from "slum."

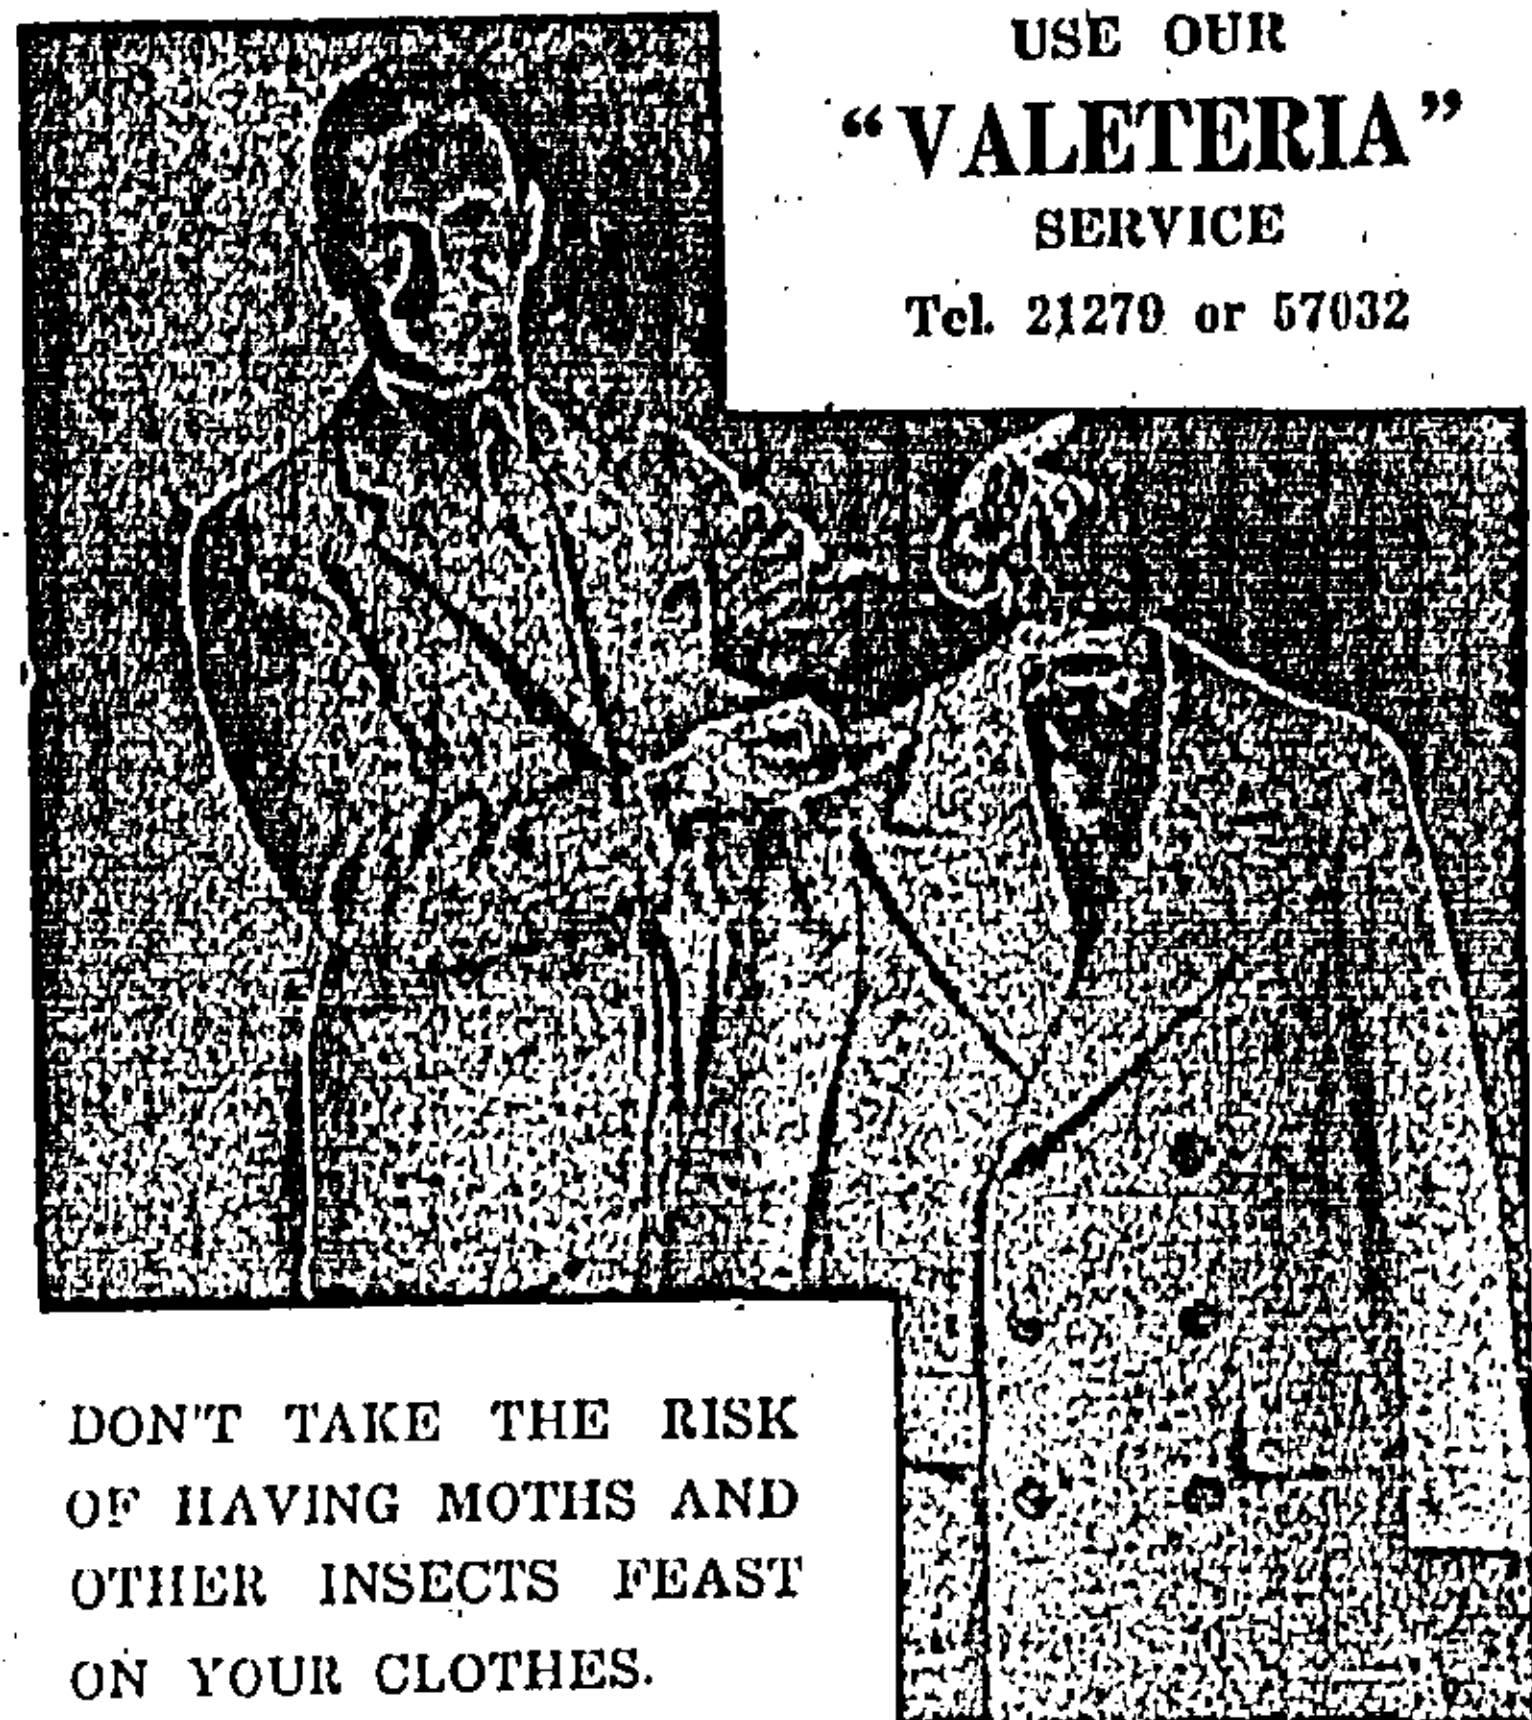

MOBILIL IS NOW MORE THAN EVER THE OIL WITH THE GREATEST MARGIN OF SAFETY.

THREE CHARGES OF THEFT

Defendant Reveals His Haul

Sentence of six months' hard labour was imposed on Wong Ming, a 32-year-old unemployed, who appeared before Mr. E. J. Wynne Jones at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday on three charges of stealing.

The first charge was for stealing a camera, a silver candle stick, and a ladies handbag from No. 102 Prince Edward Road, belonging to Mrs. R. E. McNease, on May 23; the second was for stealing a cotton quilt and two woollen jerseys from Cheung Liou-ah, a married woman, residing at No. 219 Tung Choi Street, on May 8; while the third was for stealing a gramophone, and two woollen singlets from Chan Tak-yu, a merchant of No. 107 Sai Yeung Choi Street, on March 23.

Detective-Sub-Inspector Poyntz of the Shamshui Police Station stated that the defendant was arrested in Prince Edward Road with a small purse in his possession, and, on being questioned, took the police to his house where the remainder of the property was found. All has been recovered.

Chan Kwai, a 31-year-old unemployed, was sentenced to six weeks' hard labour by Mr. Q. A. A. Macfadyen at the Central Police Court yesterday morning for snatching a

The Passing Hour

The current events of England. Sentiment still centred round the old Queen, whose prestige was so slow to wane that people were unwilling to recognise that time had passed on and brought a change of monarch. In the end of course recognition had to come, and the central idea of the case was recognised by the adoption of the name of "Empire Day."

THE CENTRAL IDEA

THE celebration by the observance of a school holiday only partially meets the object of the commemoration; it is of course the most popular feature with the children themselves; but it does nothing to make us familiar with the scenery and the peoples of the countries that own a common jurisdiction with ourselves. The cinemas do that to a small extent; but the prevalence of Hollywood films shuts out the wider aspect, and there is no attempt to choose a programme suitable to the occasion, although there is no reason why Indian or Australian or Canadian films should not be just as interesting as any others. The African films sent out from Hollywood are altogether beneath any serious notice. Some day soon the big syndicates will wake up to the fact that if they want to appeal to a cosmopolitan audience they must have cosmopolitan interests, and put local prejudices aside.

U.S. BONUS ISSUE ENACTMENT OF FURTHER BILL UNLIKELY

Congress Members
Lose Enthusiasm
SESSION TO BE ACCELERATED

Washington, Yesterday.
With the Bonus issue at least temporarily settled, President Roosevelt and Congressional leaders have changed the remainder of the legislative course with a view to bringing about as speedily as possible a conclusion to the Session.

After a general discussion of the still pending Administration measures, the President yesterday conferred with Labour representatives concerning the extension to the National Recovery Administration and the Industrial Disputes Bill, with an indication that the Administration is approving the principles of the Disputes Bill. Mr. William Green, President of the American Federation of Labour, said: "The conference between Labour leaders and President Roosevelt was highly satisfactory."

OUTLOOK CLOUDY
The extension to the National Recovery Administration for 21½ months is expected to pass the House of Representatives next week, but the outlook regarding a compromise with the Senate is still clouded. The House will then take up the Industrial Disputes Bill, the passage of which is now regarded as practically assured.

Meanwhile, bonus advocates are somewhat discouraged and disorganised by their defeat and are trying to regain breath before pushing any new proposals, but their predictions of the enactment of another Bill this Session lacked conviction and there is a noticeable drop in the enthusiasm on the part of Congress members over prospects of the enactment of another Bonus Bill.

The reported plans of another Bonus march to Washington are not taken seriously, as such a march is actively opposed by the Veterans leaders.—Reuter.

ILLINOIS TENSION RELIEVED

$5,000,000 Of Federal Funds Released

CRISIS NEARS END

Springfield, Mass., Yesterday.

The Federal Relief Administrator, Mr. Harry Hopkins, after a conference with Governor Horner, announced that $5,000,000 of Federal funds would immediately be released to Illinois, to help to end the crisis.—Reuter.

This is the final act in a long-standing dispute between the people of Illinois and the Legislature, on the question of the Sales Tax Bills. On the night of May 7 a body of 500 demonstrators marched on the State capital to demand that the relief depots in the State be re-opened at once. Governor Horner informed a committee of the demonstrators that the only hope of getting the funds was to force the passage of two Bills by the Legislature, whereby the sales tax could be increased from two to three cents, producing $3,000,000 a month.

The Republican minority then announced that it would oppose any increase in the sales tax, and would refuse to give the Bills the necessary two-thirds majority.

A later message, received on Thursday, said that the position had grown so serious, following the rejection of the Bills for the fifth time, that the Legislature, acting quickly to break the relief crisis, passed the Bills with a majority of 77 votes.

Britain's New Highway Code

London, Yesterday. — In the House of Commons yesterday the new high-way code, which in many respects modifies the light of recent experience that of 1931, was approved. The Minister of Transport, Mr. Hore-Belisha, said that a copy of the new code, which lays down rules for the conduct of all road-users, including pedestrians, would be delivered free to every household in the country. If the code was observed there would certainly be a reduction in road accidents. The measures already taken, said Mr. Hore-Belisha, had, together with the growing traffic consciousness of the community, produced very good results. During the current year there had been a considerable reduction in road accidents, despite the phenomenal increase in the number of vehicles using the roads.

In London the reduction in fatalities in the last nine weeks was no less than 30 per cent, and in injuries, 15 per cent, whilst the increase in the number of vehicles licensed was over 12 per cent. The code was, he added, an effort to contribute to the public safety, and embodied suggestions made from every quarter.—British Wireless Service.

Germany To Reply To British Enquiries

Berlin, yesterday.

The British Ambassador, Sir Eric Phipps, called on Baron von Neurath, the German Foreign Minister, at 6 p.m. last evening and put questions concerning a number of points in Reichsfuehrer Hitler's recent speech in the Reichstag. The German answer is expected in due course.

The visit is regarded as a sign that things are moving again here, and there was a hopeful atmosphere in official circles and in the evening papers. The latter said that the foreign recognition was positive of portions of Herr Hitler's speech, and it was hoped that the other Powers would act fittingly thereto.—Reuter.

RED SOX TAKE LEAD

New York, Yesterday.
The Giants consolidated their position at the top of the National Baseball League yesterday, when they secured an overwhelming victory over the Cubs through the efforts of Hal Schumacher, their star pitcher.

The Dodgers are close on the heels of the leaders and yesterday beat the Cardinals by two runs, while the Pirates nosed out the Braves, who lost their 21st game in 29 encounters.

A full programme of the American League took place, the Red Sox snatching the leadership from the White Sox and the Indians by virtue of their win over the Tigers.

The White Sox were surprisingly held by the Senators, who won by 10 clear runs, thanks to the excellent pitching of Buck Newsom, who blanked the Chicago team. Results as cabled by Reuter were:—

ATTEMPT TO KILL MOTHER GOOSE

LEAVE THE CHILDREN THEIR DREAM-WORLD

JINGLE-LAND IS AS OLD AS HUMANITY

(By Phyllis Juby)

THIS little poem on children was written by an adult for adults: "They live; we exist. They feel; we think. They come; we go. They play; we fumble. They dream, awake; we dream, asleep. They sleep; we toss. We cannot be; But let us try."

We begin on that note. And now let us try, too, to understand old Mother Goose. Indeed, what is becoming of Mother Goose? Sophisticated critics wish to drive her out of the kindergarten, the school, the home, the juvenile public library. Let there be no more old-fashioned nonsense, they cry. Let us support the modern toys and the modern books. For do not thousands of new children's books appear each year? This is no longer a play-world. Why then should small children still live in that dream-and-jingle world? And adults carry on the perilous experiment of delecting Mother Goose.

What is Mother Goose, in reality? Those countless songs and rhymes reach back into dim ages, transplanted or translated from peoples and eras, until they have gone into what the English dub Mother Goose. They are most of them nonsensical. So much the better! When a race is old enough to play upon wisdom and knowledge it seeks a kind of absolute music. And jingling nonsense is a kind of absolute music. Who stops dancing to ask what dancing means? Stimuli of the senses came before mental impressions. One sees, to be sure, less dancing on the sidewalks. Organs and monkeys and Jacks and Jills have all grown up and retired to prosperous apartments. Jack is the successful business man; Jill loves to write but she will not have made good until she has won a substantial literary prize. And the little Jacks and Jills must have their commercial conscience developed from the earliest age. But happily for them they are still more independent than we could wish.

There really is no need for overmuch supervision in the field of juvenile literature. A little guidance in the form of attractive suggestion, yes. But children form their own impressions from what they read; they live in a world apart, and rightly so. As they grow older they will, if they are intelligent, read above their heads and simply dismiss what they do not understand. But in the meantime they are conservative in maintaining the traditions of jingle-land. The recent attempt to modernise Mother Goose was the failure it deserved. What the jingles may have gained in logic they lost in music. Music

ROBOT OFFICE BOY

Records Telephone Numbers

A robot office boy, which records the telephone numbers of incoming calls, has been invented by a business man of Cardiff, S. Wales.

The appliance is attached to the telephone. If the businessman goes out he switches the machine on and any calls are automatically registered, a small tape emerging from the side with the callers' numbers written on it.

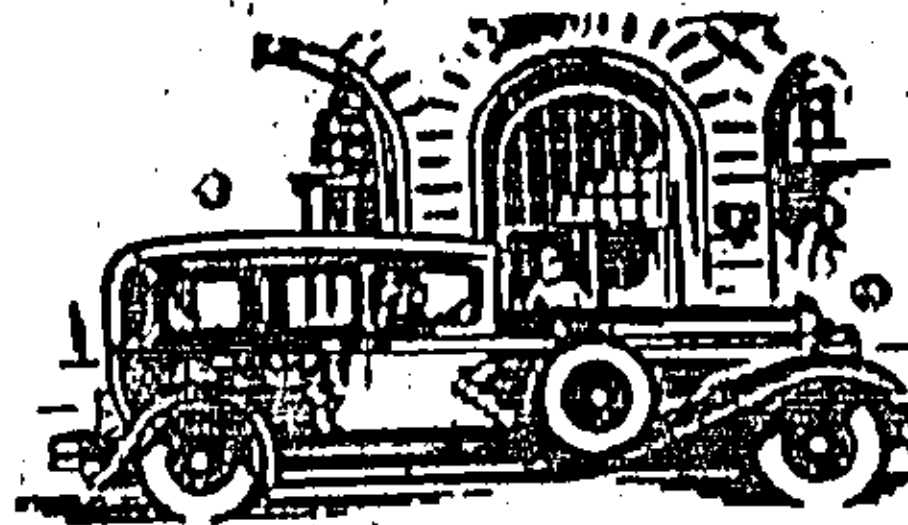

The inventor took five years to perfect the device. It is shortly to be demonstrated to Post Office experts.

has a logic of its own and the nonsense jingles, too, have their logic. That is the secret of their charm and long life.

The reformer would employ his time to more advantage by creating new tunes instead of tampering with the old. There is very little juvenile literature of a high order for all the thousands of sentimental, childish books that flood the market each year. A Lewis Carroll is not born every day. No more is a Nathaniel Hawthorne, a Walter de la Mare. Writing for children is an art in miniature. The best books are written by men in whom the child never dies, and who come in daily contact with one or more youngsters. Others, like Gulliver's Travels, were written without children as an audience and yet have become highly popular with them. It is when stupid and sentimental grown-ups try to stoop to meet the child's understanding that they write childish books which serve only to irritate the young and make them feel inferior.

Many of the jingles have an old tradition, and many even conveyed a meaning or recorded an event.

MOTORING NOTES

SPLENDID RUN OF FORD V8

New York To Seattle In 60½ Hours

It is not usually expected that men who follow the sea should attempt unusual exploits on land, but Harry Laycock, popular Dollar Line steward, is an exception to the rule. Quite recently Mr. Laycock was in Albany, New York, and had to reach Seattle as quickly as possible. He made the trip in his new V-8 Ford in 60½ hours, driving 3,240 miles.

While he did not break any speed records set up by professional drivers, this is an unusual good record for a non-professional driver, particularly as Mr. Laycock did all of the driving himself.

Mr. Laycock is well known throughout the Far East, due not only to his accomplishments in looking after the culinary department of the "President Coolidge" for several years, but also on account of his interest in radio and broadcasting activities.

REVERSING PROBLEM

"People who cannot reverse properly should have a notification to that effect on their licences," said the Cardiff Stipendiary in answer to an advocate who pleaded that his client's driving licence should not be endorsed.

INVENTION FOR LORRY DRIVERS

"Auto Mike" Aids His Hearing

Most motorists have known the exasperation of driving for miles along a dangerously twisting road, at the rear of a huge lorry with probably a trailer lunging skittishly behind it. Repeated blasts on the horn seem to have no effect on the driver and one usually puts it down to a "dog-in-the-manger" attitude. In nine cases out of ten, it is probable that the driver in his noisy car, grappling with the steering of a colossal load, is ignorant of your presence.

A device to obviate this problem has been marketed.

It is known as the "Phillips Autotalk" and consists of a weatherproof microphone fitted to the rear of the lorry or trailer, directly coupled to horn loud speakers situated in the driver's cab.

The microphone is so designed as to pick up high frequency sounds only; the driver hears only the amplified warning of an overtaking motorist.

A VARIEGATED ROAD

To Speed Up Traffic In Birmingham

A road 30 ft. wide and over a third of a mile long, with sections in tar macadam, concrete, rubber, wood sets, brick and iron, was laid at the site in Castle Bromwich of the Birmingham section of the British Industries Fair.

Road-making exhibits were among the chief features of the Birmingham section, and the materials were bought from actual exhibitors. As well as being an actual exhibit, this road will speed-up Fair traffic considerably.

NEW STANDARD VACUUM OIL: PRAISED

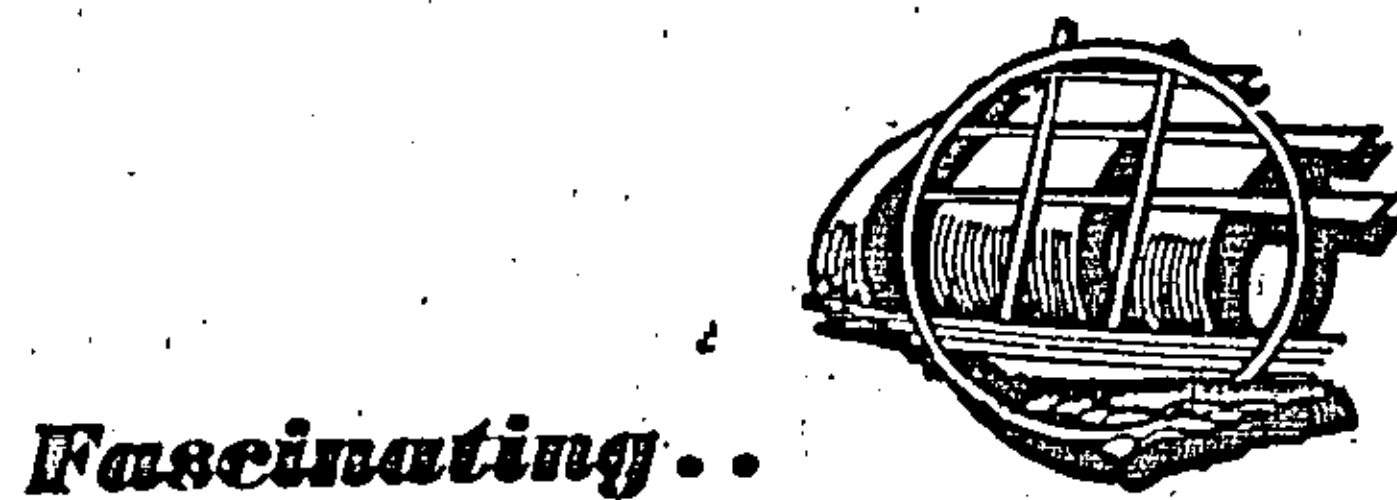

Praises from thousands of motorists are being bestowed on the new summer motor oil which was announced recently by the Standard-Vacuum Oil Company. This oil is made by the company's new method of oil refining, known as the Clearsol Process. The process uses powerful solvents to "wash" crude oils of all impurities.

Automotive engineers point out that the new oil will not only be of money-saving benefit to motorists driving cars that have covered 5,000 and 10,000 miles and more, but that it will be of particular aid in the operation of new cars with their higher engine speeds and high compression motors. Standard-Vacuum has announced that the new oil will cost the motoring public no more than oils made by other methods.

HINTS ON GOOD DRIVING

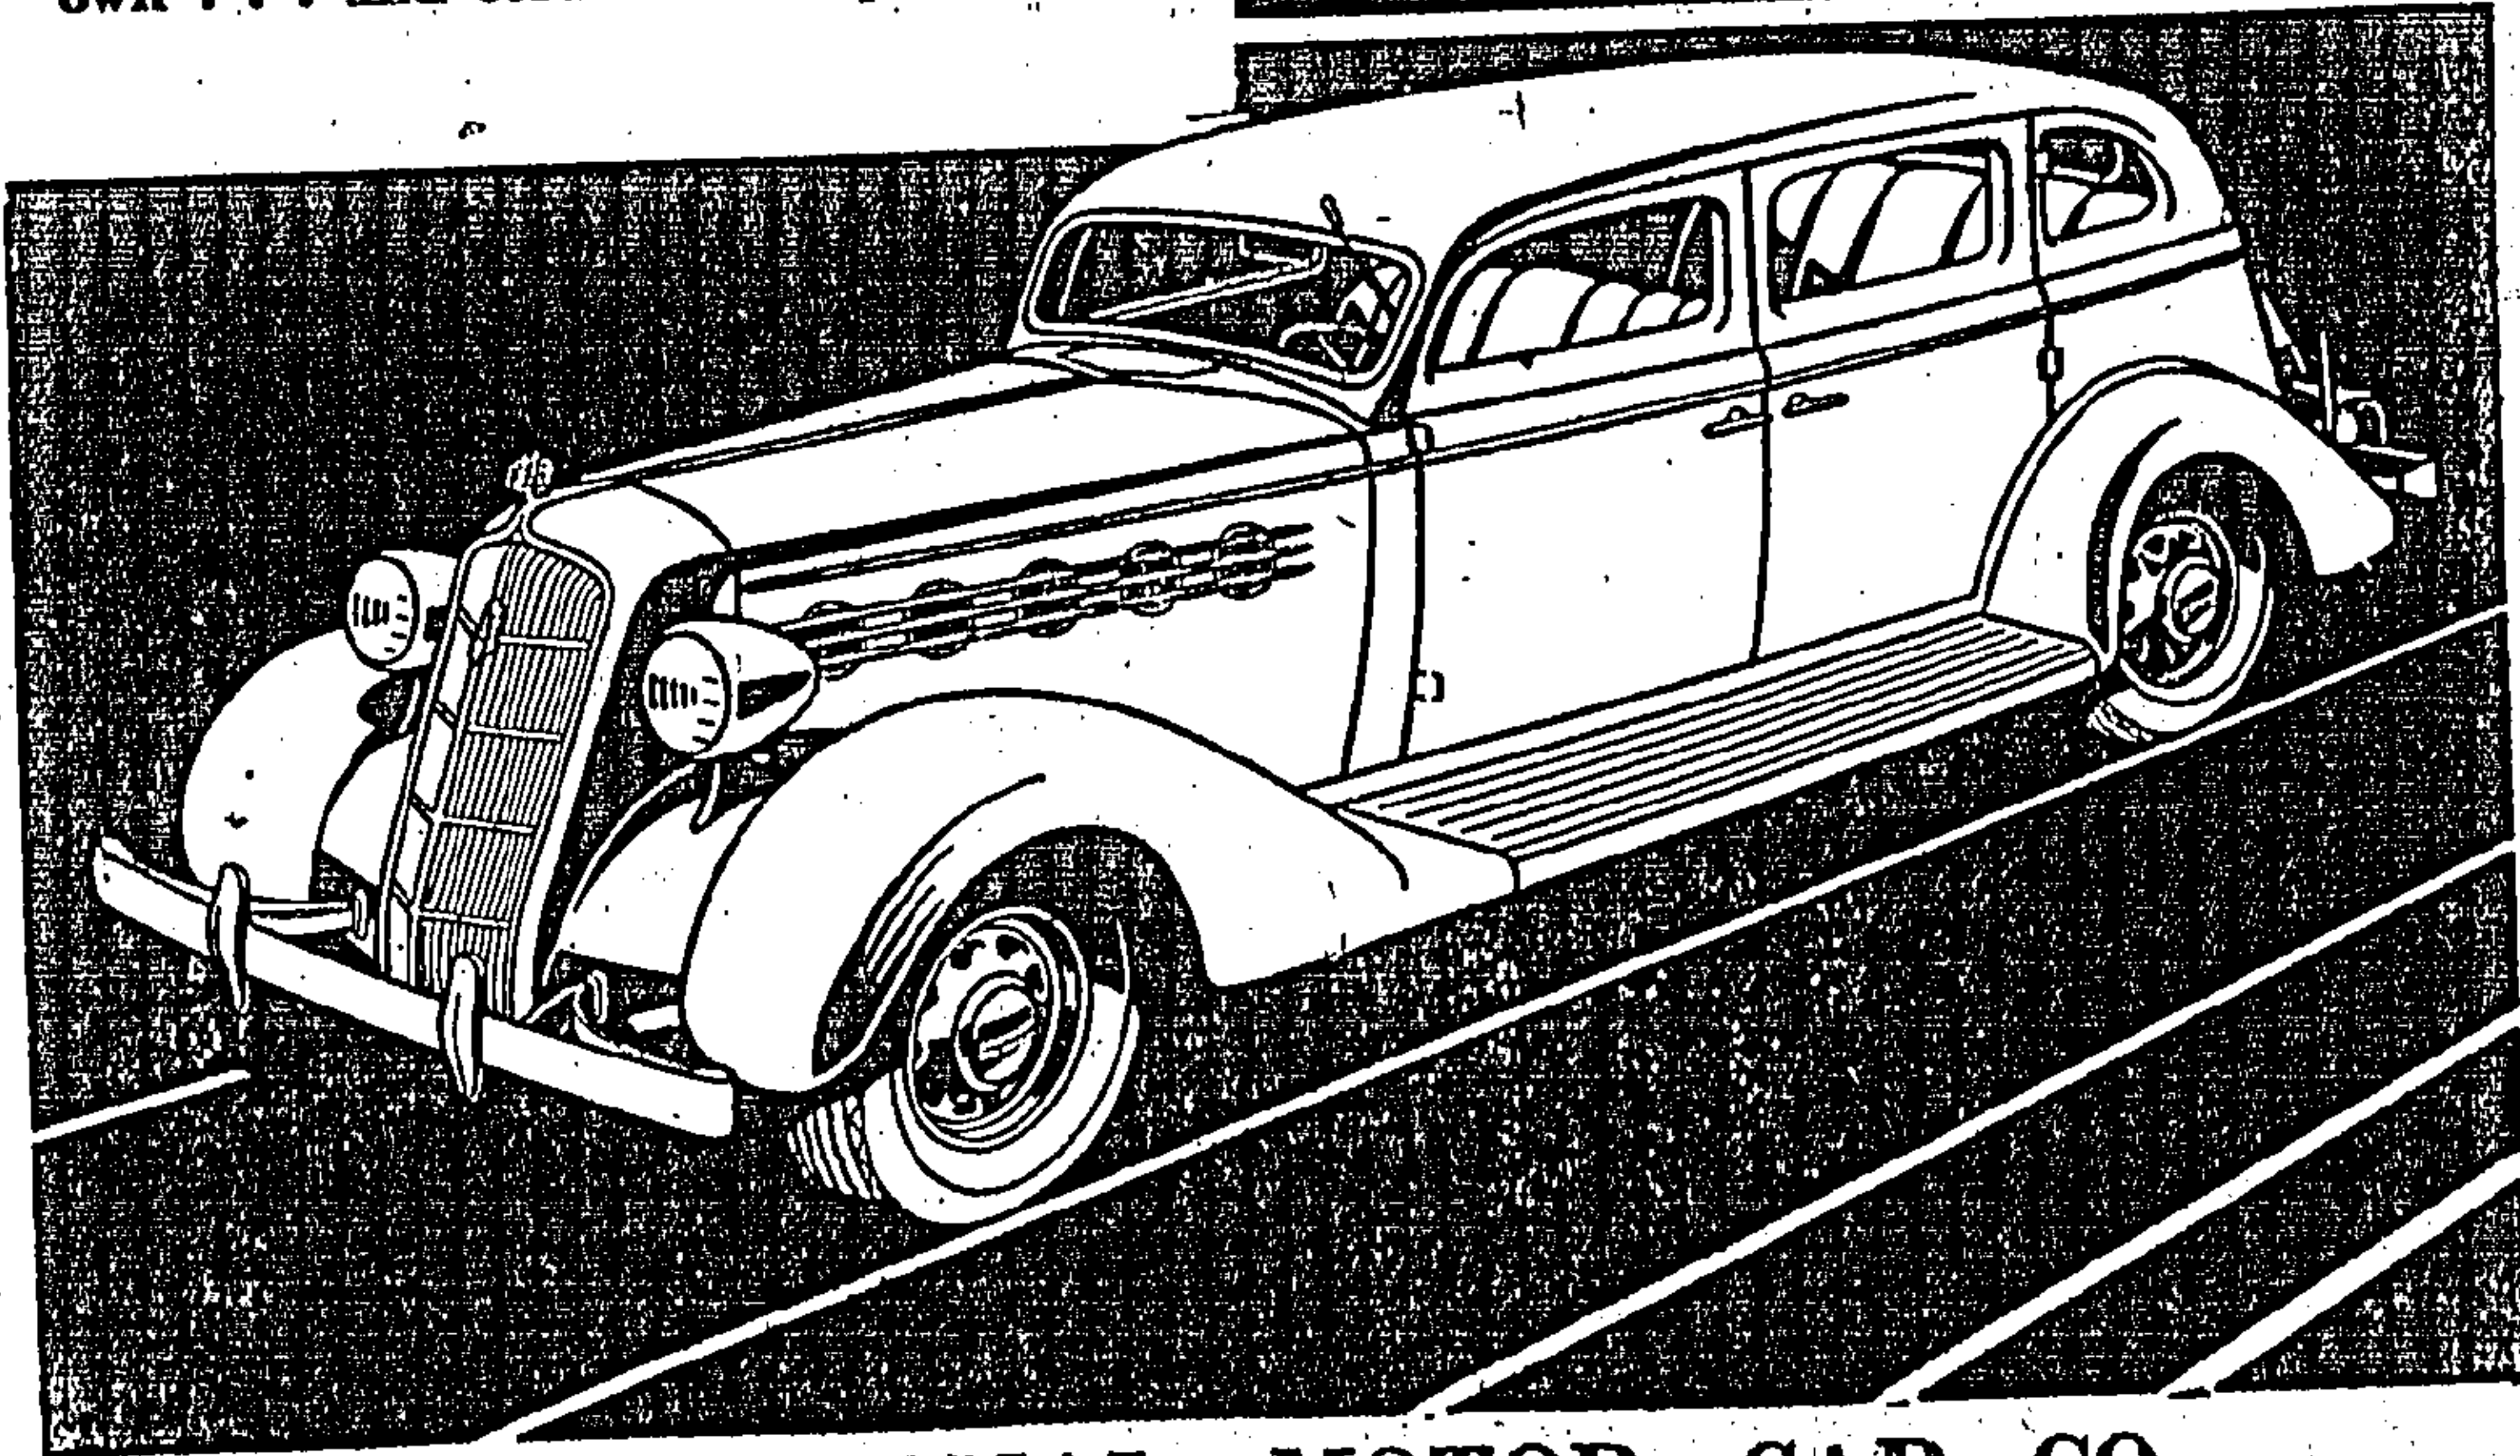

When in doubt change down.

For a greasy corner, an unknown hill, a blind cross-road or difficult traffic an indirect gear gives better braking or quicker acceleration out of harm's way. Strange though it may seem, probably more accidents are avoided by intelligent use of the gear-box than by panic-stricken application of the brakes.

Fascinating...

SAUCE

"Eena, meena, mina, mo," is a counting game whose forebears may be traced in ancient Rome, Greece and Judea. Each race and period naturally brought spontaneous variations to whatever the originals happened to be. The story of "The House that Jack Built" is developed through addition and repetition, and similar stories and methods may be found throughout the past, among many races and languages. In the Koran, and the Talmud stories are developed through comparison. Here is a passage from the latter:

"Iron breaks stone; fire melts iron; water extinguishes fire; the clouds consume water; the storm dispels clouds; man withstands the storm; fear conquers man; wine banishes fear; sleep overcomes wine; and death is the master of sleep, but charity, says Solomon, saves even from death."

The riddle contains facts as well as rhetoric, and beauty and philosophy are born. It is easy to commit to memory—always the first essential with children. And in the best of the nonsense rhymes there is a pictorial statement or some implication that embodies a mood or a philosophy. But to children pleasure is the first desire. Consider the musical delights of Old Cole:

Old King Cole was a merry old soul,
And a merry old soul was he;
He called for his pipe,
And he called for his bowl,
And he called for his fiddlers three.

Then Mother Goose is full of fragmentary poems combining sense and nonsense. Mist is described as "A hill full, a hole full, yet you cannot catch a bowl full." Here is a whole book on economics:

He that hath it and will not keep it,
He that wanteth it and will not seek it,
He that drinketh and is not dry,
Shall want money as well as I.

A book of vanities:
Tommy Trot, a man of law,
Sold his bed and lay upon straw;
Sold the straw, and slept on grass,
To buy his wife a looking-glass.
A handsome lesson:
Come with a whoop, come with a call,
Come with a good will or not at all.

And if we will have no more of Mother Goose, what is to become of Humpty-Dumpty, the Queen of Hearts, Jack Sprat, Bo-Peep, Cock Robin, The Ten Little Niggers, preach toward a philosophy.

HOW BEETLE LED TO ROMANCE

Searching For Pest: Found A Bride

When he found a beetle crushed on the path before him, Professor Alfred Buckhurst had little idea that the beetle would lead him to romance.

Here is the story. Professor Buckhurst had just stepped off the Gravesend ferryboat at Tilbury when he saw the beetle. He stooped to examine it—and recognised it as the Colorado beetle, the deadly potato pest.

Experts from the Ministry of Agriculture answered the professor's call. They went down to Tilbury, combed a wide area in their search for the beetle, and for nearly a year carried on their disinfectant process.

Professor Buckhurst stayed at the same hotel as the experts. The manageress was Miss Ena Lillian Wright.

She recently became Mrs. Buckhurst.

Simple Simon, and a host of others? Why, the nonsensical Cat and the Fiddle has survived many ponderous volumes. And here is a light-hearted jingle that contains the very essence of tragic loneliness:

As I walk'd by myself,
And talk'd to myself,
Myself said unto me:
Look to thyself,
Take care of thyself,
For nobody cares for thee.
I answered myself,
And said to myself,
In the self-same repartee:
Look to thyself,
Or not look to thyself,
The self-same thing will be.

Literary progress has never been achieved through a complete disregard of past works; new forms are ever shaped out of the old. And it is no easy matter to write for children. They are not an angelic little audience to be protected from all but the nicest thoughts, nor dare we expose them to the host of pot-boilers written by those who desire only the profit and do not write either for the love of writing or for love of the young. The world we live in is not a good little world, so why try to take the Queen of Hearts, the Queen of a child's sure and delightful approach toward a philosophy.

The Story-Teller

frightened, and thought to herself: "If I had not been so extraordinarily good I should have been safe in the town at this moment."

"However, the scent of the myrtle was so strong that the wolf could not sniff out where Bertha was hiding, and the bushes were so thick that he might have hunted about in them for a long time without catching sight of her, so he thought he might as well go off and catch a little pig instead. Bertha was trembling very much at having the wolf prowling and sniffing so near her, and as she trembled the medal for obedience clinked against the medals for good conduct and punctuality.

"The wolf was just moving away when he heard the sound of the medals clinking and stopped to listen; they clinked again in a bush quite near him. He dashed into the bush, his pale grey eyes gleaming with ferocity and triumph, and dragged Bertha out and devoured her to the last morsel. All that was left of her were her shoes, bits of clothing, and the three medals for goodness."

"Were any of the little pigs killed?"
"No, they all escaped."
"The story began badly," said the smaller of the small girls, "but it had a beautiful ending."
"It is the most beautiful story that I ever heard," said the bigger of the small girls, with immense decision.
"It is the only beautiful story I have ever heard," said Cyril.
A dissentient opinion came from the aunt.

"A most improper story to tell to young children! You have undermined the effect of years of careful teaching."
"At any rate," said the bachelor, collecting his belongings preparatory to leaving the carriage, "I kept them quiet for ten minutes, which was more than you did."
"Unhappy woman!" he observed to himself as he walked down the platform of Templecombe station; "for the next six months or so those children will assail her in public with demands for an improper story!"

PETITION FAILS

WEST AUSTRALIA AND SECESSION

PARLIAMENTARY REPORT

London, Yesterday.

The Joint Committee of both Houses of Parliament appointed to consider the petition of the State of Western Australia for secession from the Commonwealth of Australia has presented its report. The conclusion of the Committee is that, inasmuch as the prayer of the petition asks for legislative action which in their opinion it would be constitutionally incompetent for the Parliament of the United Kingdom to take, except upon the definite request of the Commonwealth of Australia, conveying clearly the expressed wish of the Australian people as a whole, and inasmuch as the petition is presented by the Government of Western Australia, which as a State is not concerned with the subject matter of the proposed legislation, the petition is not proper to be received.—British Wireless Service.

Fight To Be Renewed

Melbourne, Yesterday.

"The people of Western Australia will fight on until they have received justice from the Commonwealth Government," said the Premier, Mr. Philip Toole, commenting on the report of the joint committee of the Lords and Commons.

He added that the present position was intolerable, and that unless there were great changes the Federation would not last a decade.—Reuter.

Cleanliness Movement In Taiyu

Canton, Yesterday.

A cleanliness movement was launched in Taiyu, South Kiangsi, earlier this month by the people, under the direction of the Special Tangu of the Kwangtung 1st Army Corps, according to a message from that county.

On that day, all Government organs, schools, business firms, and families in the city cleaned their houses, while soldiers, Government employees, and students cleared away dust and dirt in streets and roads.

In order to arouse the people to a sense of sanitation, the students of the 18th Middle School and the

ARIYOSHI FETED IN JAPAN

FAREWELL LUNCHEON GIVEN BY PREMIER

Tokyo, Yesterday.

The Premier, Admiral Okada, to-day gave a farewell luncheon to Mr. Akira Ariyoshi, Japan's first Ambassador to China, who leaves for his post on June 4.—Reuter.

Mr. Ariyoshi's work recently culminated in a marked improvement in relations between the Chinese and Japanese Governments. Before his departure for Tokyo on April 22, the Minister conferred at length with Japanese Consular officials throughout China on the suppression of anti-Japanese activities. His report to Tokyo was expected to prove an important guide to future Japanese policy.

Consular officials reportedly told Mr. Ariyoshi that there had been a most marked improvement in relations between the two countries recently, especially around Nanking, where anti-Japanese officials were being replaced and where the Chinese Government was making strenuous efforts to suppress anti-Japanese organisations.

Less satisfactory gains were reported in South China. This did not improve the hopes of Japanese business men for a new Sino-Japanese amity, bringing a sharp uplift in trade in China and enabling Japan to wrest business dominance from the United States.

Spokesmen for the Japanese Legation emphatically denied that any concrete steps had been taken towards a rapprochement between the two countries in a political, financial, or economic way, although they admitted that some tentative suggestions for closer economic relations had been submitted by the Consuls for Mr. Ariyoshi's consideration. They insisted negotiations for a positive understanding would not begin until China's attitude toward Japan was more markedly improved.

Throughout his stay in China Mr. Ariyoshi was the butt of much criticism from militant-minded Japanese for his allegedly mild attitude, until his methods were vindicated by a sudden change in front by the Chinese Government, as evidenced by certain friendly declarations of Chinese leaders.

Mr. Ariyoshi left China at the height of his influence, although his efforts were set back several times by Japanese military operations in North China.

Simultaneously with Mr. Ariyoshi's departure Major-General Rensuke Isogai arrived at Shanghai to replace Major-General Suzuki as Japanese Military Attaché. He was followed by a number of so-called "younger officers" and observers wondered on the possibility that the Japanese military policy was being strengthened.

Tokyo admittedly was watching with concern the phenomenal development of China's air strength, while remaining lukewarm to suggestions of international financial assistance to China, negotiations for which continued to drag.

U.S. MISSION IN SZECHUEN

Madame Chiang this morning left Yunnanfu and was given an enthusiastic farewell. She flew north towards the Yangtze, along the course of the upper river, and thus to Chungking.

The Economic Mission will fly to Chengtu shortly and make their headquarters there for some time.—Reuter.

LOCAL SHIPPING HORIZON DARKENED BY STORM CLOUDS

Situation Becomes More Tense

OMINOUS MEETING HELD

There are no signs yet available that the storm clouds on the local shipping horizon, to which we drew attention last week, are dispersing. On the contrary, matters appear to be becoming more threatening; further action has been taken by the disgruntled elements, and on Wednesday afternoon last a mass meeting of British officers and men employed on the ships of a well-known company operating on the China Coast, was held, and a resolution was passed protesting against the payment of a considerable bonus to married men in the offices and other shore positions as opposed to that paid to the staff afloat.

It was also mentioned that a feeling of dissatisfaction was running high among the officers and engineers of these ships because of this alleged injustice.

The minutes of a similar meeting held in Shanghai on May 17 were read at the meeting held on Wednesday, and it was noted that a resolution of the same nature had been passed at the Shanghai meeting.

REVENUE FIGURES ISSUED IN CANTON

Expenditure Exceeds Income

Canton, Yesterday.

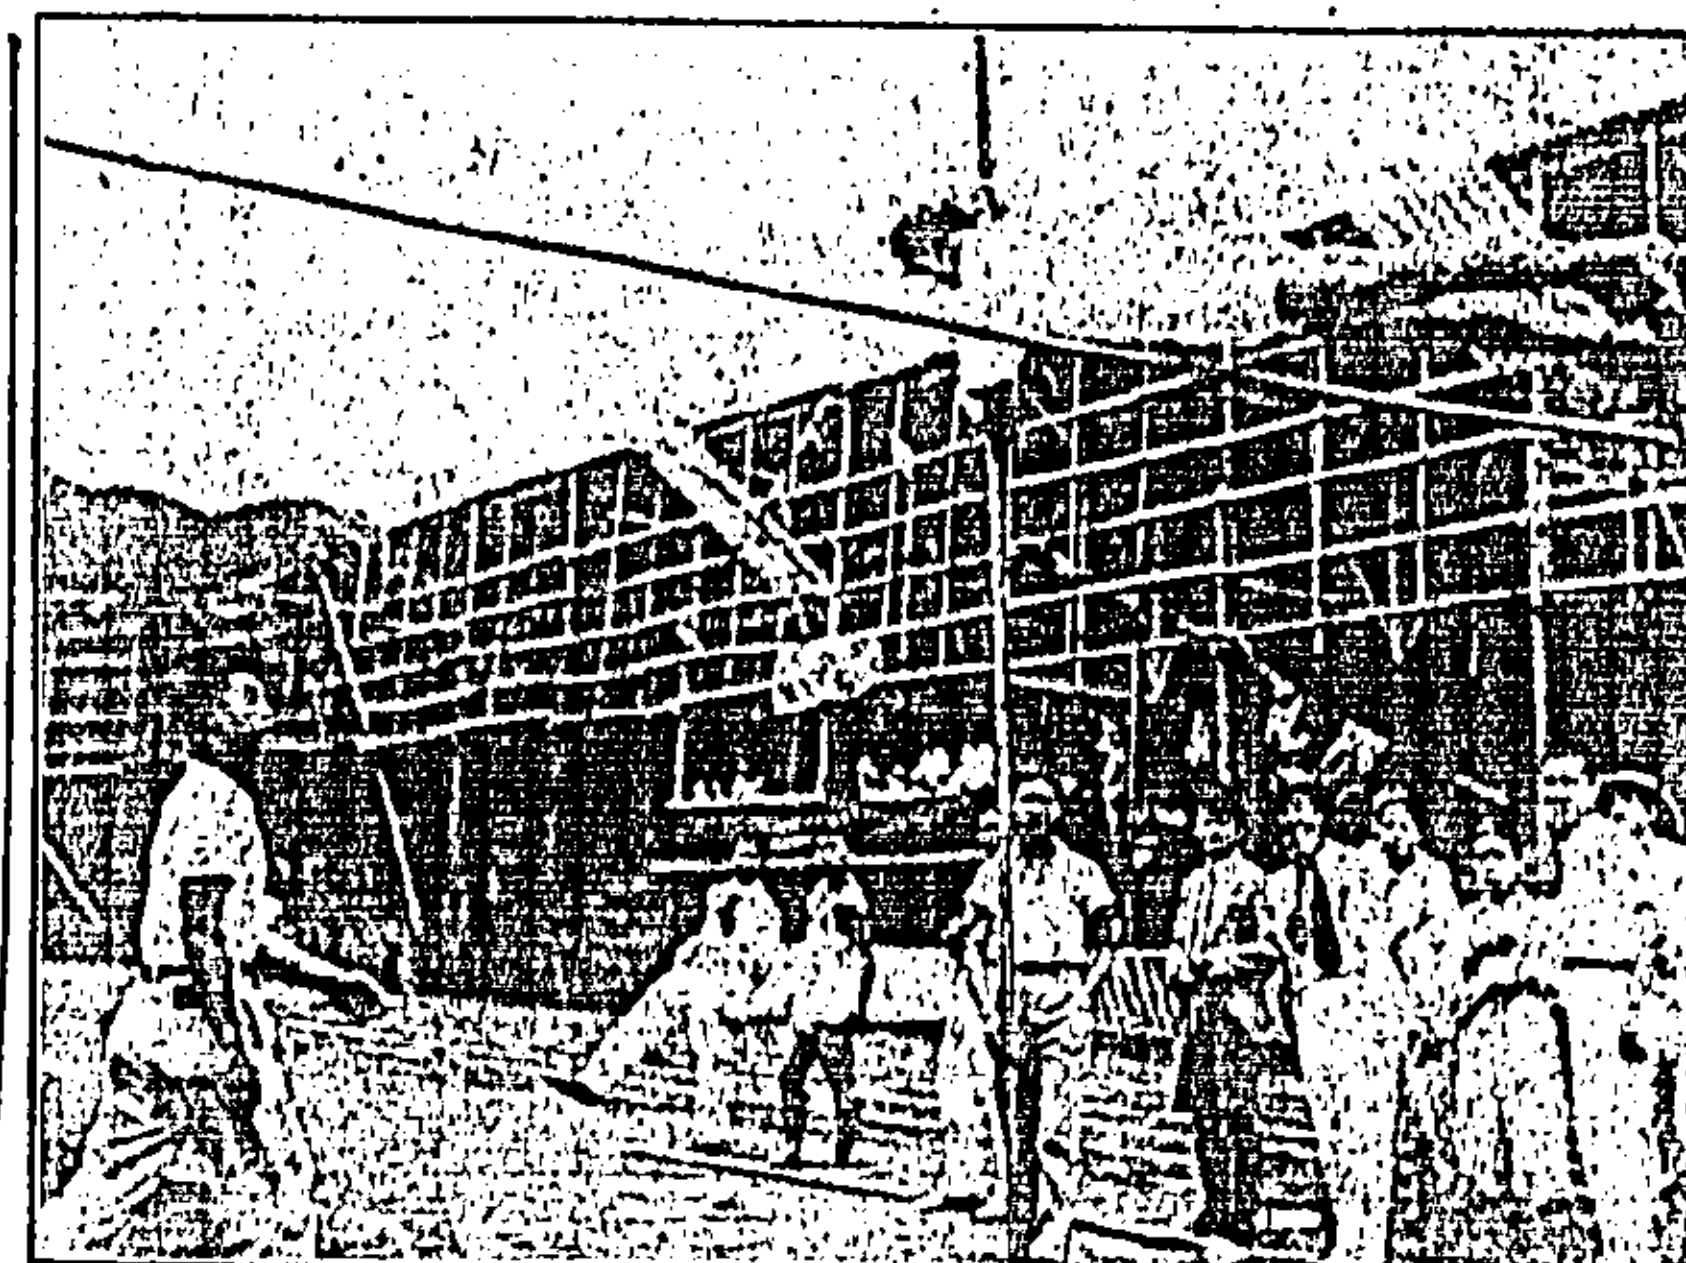

According to the official report of the Finance Mission and Provincial Department of Finance, the revenues and expenditures during February 1935 were as follows:—
National Revenue: $3,172,686.00;
National Expenditure: $5,494,200.00.

Provincial Revenue: $3,864,409.00; Provincial Expenditure: $5,207,810.00.—Central Press.

"CLIVE OF INDIA" BANNED

The preview took place on Friday evening, and both the American and British Consuls and Dr. Kan were of the opinion that the film was in no way degrading to the Indian community, although the episodes referred to were deleted. "Clive of India" will be screened at the King's Theatre on or about June 22.

WAR RISK GREATLY REDUCED

It is authoritatively stated that the British Government will not be satisfied with anything less than acceptance of the three points already laid down, which are regarded as the minimum.

A later message from Geneva states that complete agreement has been reached on every point. Italy accepted a compromise based on slightly modified British proposals.

LOCAL MISSION IMPRESSED BY CANTON TRADE

SUPPRESSION OF OPIUM

Conference To Be Held At Nanning

Canton, Yesterday.

In order to readjust affairs relating to the suppression of opium, the Kwangsi Provincial Government has decided to hold a conference in Nanning on June 6.

All directors of opium suppression bureaux in Kwangsi have been notified to proceed to Nanning before that day and get their proposals prepared.—Central Press.

The meeting opened with a brief statement by M. Litvinoff, who read the resolution. Statements by the Abyssinian official adviser and Baron Aloisi, the representative of Italy, followed.

Captain Anthony Eden paid a tribute to the Italo-Abyssinian spirit of conciliation and the efforts of the Council. He hoped that the parties would proceed to the demarcation of the frontier as soon as the present difficulties were amicably liquidated.—Reuter.

CONSIDERATION HELD OVER BY LEAGUE

BALALAIKA CONCERT POSTPONED

INSUFFICIENT SUPPORT

The Balalaika concert arranged by M. Dimitry Dimoff, who is at present making his second tour of the Far East, which should have taken place at St. Andrew's Hall last night, was postponed to a future date, owing to insufficient support.

M. Dimoff was to have been assisted by Mrs. N. Kanis at the piano, Miss M. Gomes, vocalist, and Mr. D. Wolf, cellist.

The audience, which numbered about 25, waited fully half-an-hour for the concert to commence, and it was then announced that it had been postponed. Arrangements are being made to secure the Y.M.C.A. Hall.
